The Logical French.
Chrysler's Floating Power.
Rockefeller Center.
Some Ladies of Liberia.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE FRENCH know what they want and do not want. A logical people, they see farther ahead than other nations, and French statesmen concentrate on the welfare of France EXCLUSIVELY. If not, they get out.

The French don't want Germany to discontinue payments for two reasons:

First, they want the money now. Second, they think that payments, if stopped, will not start again, and there is something in that.

HOWEVER, INTERNATIONAL public opinion has power. President Hoover made it clear that his offer is for acceptance by ALL NATIONS. If France refuses, the moratorium proposition may lapse.

That would be a shock to our stock speculators, that picked up courage and pushed up prices as soon as the President spoke.

WALTER CHRYSLER, on the sixty-sixth floor of his New York building, yesterday showed the engine that will move his new Plymouth car. It takes courage to put $10,000,000 into a new car, in the lowest price class at this time, but Mr. Chrysler, who specializes in courage, believes that he has found something worth while in this "floating power" plant for the new free-wheeling Plymouth.

A working model shows the engine moving slowly from side to side, on an entirely new suspension plan that does away with vibration.

There is always room for a new idea.

THE $250,000,000 "improved city" that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is constructing in the heart of New York will include an improvement on the hanging gardens of Babylon. Three city blocks will have their roofs covered with gardens, in which tenants may take the air, and contemplate the power of money usefully employed.

MR. ROCKEFELLER'S center is now called "Radio City," which is not the right name, although a magnificent radio building will be a conspicuous part of it.

The new buildings will contain many fine shops, and tenants, undoubtedly, to help their business, will call their location "Rockefeller Center." And that is what the new and magnificent development should be called, officially.

MR. ROCKEFELLER has rendered an important public service by instructing his architects and builders not merely to erect magnificent buildings, but to show that improving a great city can be made to pay. He is setting an example, not building palaces to amuse himself, like a King Ludwig.

HIS ENTERPRISE will encourage others, that need profits more than Mr. Rockefeller needs them, to do something new.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS, whose eye penetrates with equal facility the interior of the atom or the vastness of the great nebula in Orion, has found out all about the "Free State of Liberia."

One gentleman, formerly a slave in the United States, now owns his own slaves in "free" Liberia. Colored men and women from the United States buy and sell natives. Ragged little native children, sometimes cruelly beaten, carry school books for the well-dressed little Americo-Liberians, descendants of United States slaves.

AND THIS displeases Mr. Curtis more than anything else. The ruling class, descendants of United States slaves, have in their houses "comely young native women" that play the part of "supplementary wives."

Local clergy offer no objection to the "dwellers in glass houses" principle.

AS YOU READ this, Post and Gatty are flying the last leg of their trip around the world. It would be more accurate to say "around the North Pole," for their path around the world will be only 14,000 miles long, whereas it would have been 25,000 miles, had they flown above the equator.

If these men, as is hoped, land safely at the end of their journey today, they will have accomplished the most remarkable flight ever made by man.

THE WICKERSHAM committee, unobtrusively, ceased to exist yesterday. You are reminded of two sad lines that the London Daily Telegraph quoted when James Gordon Bennett closed up his edition of the New York Herald in London:

"She lived unknown, and few could know
When Lucy ceased to be."

REAL NEWS and startling. Leaders of the Methodist Episcopal church meeting at Delaware, O., are in favor of birth control information for "duly married couples."

The Methodist Episcopal leaders say it is "ethical to determine the coming of children by the husband and wife of choice rather than by chance," and this regulation ends to "the safeguarding of the health of the mother, and highest development of the child, and the best interest of family life."

WEATHER ENDS SESSIONS TILL TUESDAY

Dr. Johnson, Brother-in-Law Of Mayor, Appears; Lang And Bankers Questioned

Developments in the grand jury investigation of city purchases today were these:

The grand jury adjourned late today until Tuesday at 9:30 a. m., because of the heat and the approaching holiday.

Dr. S. H. Johnson, Mayor Kline's brother-in-law and member of the Civil Service Commission, was questioned.

Public Works Director Edward G. Lang appeared before grand jury at opening of session.

A number of banker-witnesses are slated to be recalled as result of undisclosed but startling revelations made through examination of bank records.

JOHNSON PUZZLED

What line of questioning the jurors subjected Dr. Johnson to was not learned. Nor did Dr. Johnson know when he entered the jury room. He said:

"I have not the slightest idea why I have been called, but I am here to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. I guess they have subpenaed every one else in Pittsburgh."

Dr. Johnson was one of the physicians who attended Mayor Kline during his recent illness. Concerning the Mayor's condition he said:

"Physically, Mayor Kline is better, but his neck is still giving him some trouble."

When Dr. Johnson left the jury room, Percy Hunter, of the Independent Bridge Company, one of the successful bidders for bridge railing contracts, was questioned.

He was to be followed by an official of the Metropolitan State Bank of Forty-first and Butler streets.

LANG APPEARS

Public Works Director Lang and two bankers were heard during the morning session. They were C. W. Prosser, of the Union Trust Company, and R. J. Land, of the Union Savings Bank.

City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, under subpena, was not called.

The personnel of the jury was reduced to 19 today when N. Friedman, Burchfield avenue merchant, was excused because of the illness of his wife.

Just before going before the probers, whose task is believed nearing an end, Lang said:

"I have nothing to fear. I have awarded millions of dollars worth of contracts, and have always let them in what I believed to be the best interests of the city."

WINNIPEG, Man., July 1.—The Winnie Mae carrying Wiley Post and Harold F. Gatty on the last leg of their around-the-world flight, passed over McTavish, Man., today at 9:30 a. m. central standard time (11:30 a. m. Pittsburgh time.)

EDMONTON, Alberta, July 1.—(INS.)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty hopped off at 3:39 o'clock (7:30 a. m. Pittsburgh time) today on the final leg of their whirling dash around the world.

With only 2,000 miles of their planned 15,000-mile flight remaining to be covered, the airmen took off near the Edmonton field this morning just as the first streaks of dawn crossed the sky.

They headed their plane eastward, planinng to land in New York, the end of the long trail, late this afternoon or tonight. They will probably stop in Cleveland for fuel.

MAKE GOOD TAKE-OFF

The American fliers arrived here yesterday afternoon after a jump of 1,450 miles from Fairbanks, Alaska, as they rushed their plane in an attempt to fly around the world faster than ever done before. The record, 22 days, is now held by the Graf Zeppelin.

Mechanics worked all night to put the globe-girdling plane into shape for today's hop.

Post and Gatty slept in a hotel during the night and guard was maintained to see they were not disturbed. Both men appeared greatly fatigued and plainly showed the effects of the dash almost around the world. Gatty,

General Motors Prepared To Supply Cash and Cabs, Service Commissioner Told

David C. Mendoza, district sales manager for the General Motors Truck Corporation, testified today at the hearing before Public Service Commissioner Samuel Walker, on the petition of the People's Taxicab Company for an operating license, that his company was prepared to finance the proposed concern to the extent of $50,000.

Declaring the General Motors Truck Corporation was prepared to invest $50,000 in stocks provided no stocks were sold to the public, Mendoza said:

"We are willing to go a long way to get cabs in Pittsburgh. We are trying to create a market here."

CABS READY

Mendoza said further that his company is prepared to deliver 400 cabs here within 10 days, and that already it has a tentative contract with the People's company pending the granting of the concern's certificate of public convenience.

Attorney J. I. Simon, for the People's company, said he would prove by Harry Alpern, another witness, that Paul Houston, of the Parmelee Transportation Company, owners of the Yellow Cab, had tried to bribe Fred Schaffer, business agent of the Taxi Drivers' Union. Alpern, however, was not permitted to testify and was withdrawn by Simon.

Before the hearing began, Attorney C. K. Robinson, representing the Parmelee Transportation Company, asked that the People's petition be set aside. The Parmelee Transportation Company operates the Yellow and Green cabs.

OBJECTION OVERRULED

Commissioner Walker overruled the objection.

Attorney G. B. Schrum interrupted the first witness by asking permission to submit a petition for mileage and witness fees in behalf of George Schlathammer, a witness. The brief alleged that George Wortman, general manager of the People's, was not financially responsible and could not pay. Attorney J. I. Simon, for the People's Company, promised payment.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 1.—Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., today fought their way to American supremacy in the men's singles event of the Wimbledon lawn tennis championship by disposing of their two semi-final opponents, and assured an all-America final to decide the championship Saturday.

Wood disposed of Fred Perry, stalwart Briton, in four sets, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Shields overcame the French threat by disposing of Jean Borotra, the "bounding Basque," who did not bound today, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Both Shields and Wood played superior tennis in today's matches, again and again thrilling the stands packed with 25,000 spectators under hot, sultry skies.

Shields fell at the net in the eighth game of the deciding set and had to be helped off the court for emergency treatment, but returned to blast the French musketeer to defeat.

Companion Admits Drinks as Former Wife of Boston Financier Drowns in Lake

International News Service

WEST PEABODY, Mass., July 1.—Mrs. Adelaide Pierce Davis, 48-year-old widow of A. F. Pierce, president of a nationally known radiator company, and divorced wife of Howard Clark Davis, financier and promoter of Boston, was drowned today in Suntaug Lake.

Answering screams from the lake, James Armstrong, caretaker on the estate of the wealthy divorcee, his son, Roger Armstrong, and Miss Ethel Smith, a maid, found the body floating. Nearby was Richard Bennett, of New York City, attorney for Mrs. Davis, clinging to the side of an overturned boat.

Bennett told authorities that Mrs. Davis and he were rowing on the lake listening to radio music from the cottages. Mrs. Davis attempted to change her position in the boat and fell overboard. Bennett said he dove to the rescue, but was unsuccessful and nearly drowned himself.

Efforts were made to keep details of the tragedy secret. Police took charge at the Davis estate and caretaker-guards were posted at all entrances and exits.

Bennett had come here to consult with Mrs. Davis regarding the estate of her former husband, Pierce, it was stated.

Following a preliminary investigation, police said that Bennett admitted that he had had a few drinks from a bottle of Scotch whisky, which was found floating beneath the overturned rowboat.

The only solace to the farmer was that, if the heat in the two districts ends within a day or so, their corn crops will have benefited materially.

Chicago alone reported 151 deaths since the warm wave struck there a week ago Tuesday. Wisconsin has 3 dead, Indiana 54 and Iowa 81. The fatality list of the Dakotas, Minnesota, Montana and adjacent states also ran high.

In Chicago there was no need for exercise and diet among those seeking to reduce. Paul Whiteman, heavyweight king of jazz, reported he had lost 15 pounds and one chin since the heat wave started.

Temperatures well above a hundred were recorded yesterday in Milwaukee, Atlanta, Birmingham, Huron, S. D., Little Rock, Ark., Moorhead, Minn., Monticello, Ga., Peoria, Ill., and Evansville Ind.

Scores of cities reported thermometers high in the nineties.

IMMIGRATION DROP SHOWN

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP.)—Immigrants arriving during May were approximately 12 per cent of the number who entered the country in May, 1930.

Deportations exceeded the number of quota immigrants admitted.

The total of all immigrant aliens admitted during the month was 3,799 as compared with 19,414 in the same period last year.

Of the total during May of this year there were 698 from Canada, Mexico and other non-quota countries and 1,144 husbands, wives and unmarried children of United States citizens.

McGovern recalled that the Re districting Commission had re duced the number of election di tricts in the county from abou 1,400 to about 900, which increase the number of voters in each fro about 250 to about 600. McGover asked if one machine would b adequate in each district.

County Solicitor M. B. Lesher a member of the Redistrictin Commission, explained that, re gardless of any act of the Legi lature, the state constitution em powered the judges of Quarte Sessions Court to set the lines o election districts. Lesher declare the judges told the Redistrictin Commission to limit each distric to about 600 voters, and that ha been done with about six un avoidable exceptions.

Election officials believe tha one machine will accommodat most of the districts. Lesher sai it was discretionary with th County Commissioners to assig one or two machines to any elec tion district.

McGovern asked if it would b advisable to rent a number of ad ditional machines to be prepare in case the 1,100 now ordere might prove to be less tha eventually needed.

Cloonan recommended waitin until about the middle of Jul when the enrollment of th boroughs and townships would b known and the number of voter to be expected in each district might be more accurately esti mated.

ENGELSBERG MUST SERVE JAIL TERM FOR DRY OFFENSE

...ILL POLITICIAN LOSES APPEAL FROM VERDICT

...S. Circuit Court Holds ... Guilty of Conspiracy ... Financing Bootlegger

...e" Engelsberg, a politi...ader on the Hill, must ... six months in jail and $2,500 fine for violating prohibition law, the Circuit ...rt of Appeals in Philadel...a ruled today.

Engelsberg, sentenced by Judge ...lson McVicar in United States ...istrict Court, May 21, 1929, after ...aving been found guilty of pos...session and sale of liquor, had ap...ealed.

The decision was sent today to United States Attorney Louis E. Graham, of this district.

The court ruled a man buying liquor from another for re-sale is equally guilty of conspiracy, and that the seller, by extending credit, sets up the buyer in an illicit business.

Charles Berger, a convicted bootlegger, who testified against Engelsberg, had owed the latter $300, out of which grew their differences, it was said. Berger had testified he purchased bonded whisky from Engelsberg on sev...eral occasions.

...n stated:

...ed ...yer here was some...ore than a buyer in an ...y case, where he buys his own use—which is not ...oidden by the law.

"Berger was a retail bootlegger and appears to have arranged with the seller, who was a wholesale bootlegger, for the sale and purchase of liquor for re-sale.

"The buyer was broke finan...lly and the seller, by extend...credit, knowingly set him in an illicit business."

Judge McDevitt added that by spanking he did not mean a "punch in the jaw, but just a little chastisement, when the wife needs it."

HELEN DENIES KISS BALKED FILM CAREER

Love Scene With Leading Man Not Reason Tennis Queen Spurned $100,000

International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—A report from Hollywood that she turned down a $100,000 picture contract rather than kiss her leading man in a film play brought a denial here today from Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, world tennis queen.

The imperturable calm which won for her the sobriquet of "little poker face" on tennis courts throughout the world, was disturbed considerably at the report that she balked at a script which called for her to bestow a kiss on an actor. Irritated as well as indignant, she replied:

"Ridiculous!"

She was asked:

"Would you turn down a hundred thousand dollars rather than kiss a Hollywood actor?"

She started sharply:

"I won't answer—"

Then she trailed off into a laugh:

"Just pooh, pooh, is all I've got to say for that."

However, she did seriously deny that osculatory scripts had anything to do with her refusal to act before the camera. She said wearily:

"I just turned down two or three good offers because I didn't feel like going into the movies.

"I don't want to be a movie star, even if I could."

Turning to tennis for a moment, she announced that she would leave San Francisco for the eastern tournament season some time during the second week in July in order to "get in plenty of practice for the big events.

who was struck by a propeller blade in the hopoff at Fairbanks, said his shoulder was sore but that he had suffered no great pain from the injury.

The fliers' plane, the Winnie Mae, which had bogged down on the rain-soaked flying field, had been pulled over to a paved highway leading from the field to the heart of this Canadian prairie city and from the pavement the hop was made this morning.

Post, who was at the controls, guided the plane gracefully into the air and gained altitude rapidly. The start was made easily and without a hitch.

Suddenly Post banked the plane, it roared away.

CLEVELAND NEXT STOP

Several hundred persons, who gathered at the field to watch the start of the last day's flying in the mad chase set by Post and Gatty in their time-conquering dash, waved goodbye to the Yankee fliers.

Gatty, the navigator, announced that he would lay a course in a direct line for Cleveland, instead of flying southward by way of Calgary, as he had first considered.

The welcoming ceremonies here were broadcast to the United States and the fliers spoke briefly. Gatty said:

"We are very glad to be near home, where we don't have to make signs to be understood."

Post added:

"Yes, and where we don't have to eat black bread."

Post referred to their flight over Siberia, where almost all they ate was dark rye bread.

Early this morning scores of aviation enthusiasts were flocking to the airfield to watch the arrival of the fliers.

Gatty's Wife Takes Plane To Greet Him in New York

KANSAS CITY, July 1.—(INS.)—Determined to be the first person to greet her 'round-the-world flying husband, Mrs. Harold Gatty, wife of the navigator of the Winnie Mae, took off from here today for New York aboard a passenger plane of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., line.

The plane is scheduled to arrive at Municipal Airport, New York, at 8 o'clock tonight.

Mrs. Gatty arrived here last night from Los Angeles, where she was so excited she forgot to eat.

Describing her sudden decision to meet her husband when he and Wiley Post, pilot of the Winnie Mae, land at New York, completing their circumnavigation of the globe, she said:

"I just gave my children to a neighbor and climbed into a plane. I am so proud of him."

Gatty is unaware that his wife is to meet him when he steps from the Winnie Mae at the starting point of the famous flight.

Battle Over Welcoming Fliers Stirs New York

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP.)—Several forces were at odds today about who was to be "boss" of the local reception as Wiley Post and Harold Gatty hurled their plane over the last lap on their round-the-world flight.

First, Florence C. Hall, millionaire backer of the flight, had a difference with Bruno and Blythe, business managers for the aviators. Then these two parties joined forces, aided by Mrs. Wiley Post, in a debate with the Mayor's welcome committee.

Confusion began when Hall decided that the flight should be a strictly sportsmanship event, with all commercial advantages ignored. This didn't suit Bruno and Blythe.

Something of an armed armistice was achieved when the differences with members of Mayor's committee began. By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 1.—A free-for-all prohibition row, led by Mrs. Carroll Miller, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Ella Boole, world president of the W. C. T. U., which worked up to camp meeting fervor, featured today's law enforcement round-table session of the Institute of Public Affairs.

Following two scheduled speeches by former Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York, anti-dry, and Oliver W. Stewart, a dry, state and national leaders and members of the audience rose in a crowded auditorium to express their views in no uncertain terms.

Mrs. Boole and Mrs. Miller, who is here as a councilwoman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, leaped to the forefront in the general discussion. These two feminine leaders last night spoke on opposite sides of the liquor question from the same rostrum.

Today Mrs. Boole objected vigorously to a recently organized group calling itsel fthe "Crusaders." She said the term "crusader" had always been associated with movements for reform and suppression of the liquor traffic and that the new anti-dry organization had no right to call itself by this name.

Mrs. Miller became indignant and charged prohibition was "put across by backdoor methods," adding:

"I am fighting for repeal so that my sons shall have the right to self-government and self-ontrol without being run by Washington hypocrites."

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Unsung New Yorkers

COLLEGE had been a wonderful experience for Clarence. When they handed him his diploma he was in fine shape to start out in the world. He knew how to make gin in a bathtub on very short notice and was able to turn certain corners on two wheels of his imported auto. He also had a book filled with phone numbers, a very wealthy father and a definite conviction that blondes were nicer than brunettes.

As soon as he was able, Clarence hit the New York trail. Daddy gave him a huge check and wished him well.

Clarence was soon making the world a better place to live in—for chorus girls. He was the life of all the hot spots and the pet of all the girlies.

Daddy permitted five or six months to roll by before he let out a squawk. Clarence wanted $10,000 immediately. But papa wouldn't give him any more than $5,000.

A few weeks later, however, the situation grew serious. Clarence made a slight error and signed his father's name on the bottom of a check. Daddy raised plenty of the devil.

Over the long-distance phone he told Clarence just what was what.

"You'll either get yourself a job and settle down," he cried, "or I'll cut your allowance immediately."

The boy refused to settle down. His father kept his word—and more important, kept his money. Thus Clarence immediately became that most forlorn of all Broadway figures, the guy who was once a spender.

Only one place in town continued to welcome the boy. And the welcome was there because the proprietor is one of the grandest guys in town. Even though he is in the night club racket, he is honest and sincere.

It was this proprietor who took Clarence aside and gave him some sane and friendly advice.

"Kid," he said, "you're nothing but a foolish boy. It's my business to encourage chumps. When you had the dough I encouraged you just as much as any other dope who wants to throw money away. That's my business—and I don't kid myself about it.

"Now, however, things are different. You're broke—and unless you get wise to yourself in a hurry, you're going to stay that way. Keep away from these joints and try to make something out of yourself."

Clarence listened carefully, agreed that the advice was good—and immediately got himself into another difficulty. Under the influence of eight or nine drinks, he handed out a rubber check.

The check bounced the following day. The man to whom it had been issued visited the boy in his hotel room and told him very definitely that he had 24 hours in which to make good the check. Clarence understood very clearly that he was going to jail unless he dug up the money from somewhere. It would be no use wiring his father. So he turned to the one man who understood and had attempted to help him. He went to see the night club owner and told him the story.

The proprietor was very clear in his reply.

"Things aren't any too good now, Clarence," he asserted, "but I'm not going to stand around and see you sent away. I will make good that check for you—but on one condition.

"You must swear to me that you will never again visit a cafe or a speakasy. You must go to some of your old college pals tomorrow morning and get yourself a job. And that's the job you must stick to.

"Remember this advice: Never have anything to do with anybody in night clubs. Hold on to whatever dough you can. And don't be a sucker. The advice is free and for nobody's benefit but your own. You give me your word of honor that you will do as I ask and I'll give you my check to cover up your mistake."

"I promise," said Clarence . . .

The episode I have just described took place 2½ years ago. It wasn't more than a week after the promise that Clarence connected with an excellent firm on the Street. He threw himself into the work with everything he had. And he was making good in no time at all.

When his father heard the good news he was overjoyed. He came to New York and informed his son that he was the happiest man alive. Anything the boy wanted he could now have. Did he want to go into business for himself? He did? Well, by golly, that was simple enough. Thus, one year after he had almost gone to jail for passing a bad check, Clarence was the head of his own thriving organization.

About two weeks ago our old friend—the night club proprietor—needed some cash in a hurry. Things had gone very badly for him last winter and, unless he could raise some additional cash pronto, it looked as though his cafe would fall into other hands. He suddenly thought of Clarence. Surely this man he had helped so much would never turn him down.

He called Clarence's office—but he could get no further than the man's secretary. As soon as he mentioned his business, the girl informed him that Clarence was not in. A trifle perplexed, the proprietor sat down and wrote Clarence a letter. He explained the urgency of the case. And he asked for an immediate answer.

The answer came the following day. But it wasn't from Clarence. It came from his secretary.

"Dear Sir:" it read, "I regret that it will be impossible for you ever to get in touch with Mr. Clarence. Due to some advice he received some time back, one of the strictest rules of his organization is that he is never to be shown or told anything about cafes or anyone connected with them." . . .

REGION QUIET

Yesterday was a gala day for the strikers and their National Miners Union leaders who couldn't find the office of the Allegheny County Commissioners to present their demands for cash, free food, abolishment of injunctions and evictions. The committee reported back to what few of the strikers and their sympathizers who remained after the demonstration in West Park that the police had denied them audience with the Commissioners.

Carl Price and Frank Borich, who lead the committee of 25 to the City-County Building instead of the Courthouse, reported the police told them:

"You can't see the Commissioners. Our orders are to run you out of here."

To this, the committee reported, the police added the threat of clubs and guns.

But it was no secret in Grant street, before and after the visit of the committee, that the Commissioners, even at the time of the visit to the City-County Building, were meeting in their office in the Courthouse.

A bombing of a boarding house at Midland, near Canonsburg, was reported to state police early today. Nobody was hurt. The house is operated by Mrs. Rosetta Washington. Damage was slight.

MEET FOR PROTEST

Headed by the Rev. Father James R. Cox, chairman of the Pittsburgh Civil Liberties Union, a movement will be launched against suppression of constitutional rights in the coal region, Friday night at a mass meeting in Carnegie Lecture Hall. Herbert Adolphus Miller, sociologist, will be a speaker. Declaring violence and lawlessness in the coal fields must go, Father Cox said:

"The coal and iron police are abolished by the Governor's action. But the iniquitous deputy sheriff system remains. There will never be any respect for the laboring man's rights to free speech and assembly until an awakened community wipes them out also."

Child at Play Hurt In Home Gas Blast

The baby, playing on the first floor, was struck by falling plaster when the blast occurred upstairs. Firemen estimated the damage at $100.

BIRTH CONTROL REPORT UP

SEATTLE, July 1.—(AP.)—The question of birth control was placed today before the convention of the merged Congregational and Christian churches, bearing the overwhelming approval of a seminar on "The Family and Youth." Only two members of a group of 110 delegates, with a number not voting, had disapproved the report.

Under the chairmanship of President W. A. Harper, of Elon College, N. C., the seminar debated the question openly yesterday.

The action was taken approving the recent findings and conclusions of a Federal Council of Churches committee.

In the discussion, President Harper declared that Pope Pius XI, in his encyclical on marriage last winter, contradicted himself by first stating opposition to any form of birth control and then saying a particular kind of birth control, continence within the marriage relationship, was permissible.

Harvey Thomas, 35, of 147 Beech street, Homestead, was burned about the hands and face when he attempted to light the gas furnace. The explosion is believed to have been caused by accumulated gas.

AIRPORT WORK AWARDED

Mid... The Williamson Construction ...mpany has been awarded a ...ntract by the County Commis...ners to build a pump house, an ... house and a comfort station at ... municipal airport on a bid of ...8,760.

Commissioner Edward V. Babcock demurred to the location of the gasoline supply tanks near the administration building, favoring a site in the "depressed" section of the field. Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong asked if it were imperative to let the contract immediately.

Director Norman F. Brown, of the Department of Public Works, said he wanted to get the work done so the airport could be opened Labor Day. He declared:

"The electric lighting for the airport was held up last week and new bids were called for. I doubt now if we can have that work completed for two or three months."

The electric lighting bids were thrown out last week when a bidder complained the specifications called for a patented lamp that he could not furnish.

TWO ARRESTED IN DRY RAIDS

Max Marcus, 44, of 2135 Wylie avenue, was arrested by prohibition agents near his home last night when, agents said, they found five gallons of moonshine in an automobile in which he was riding. Marcus was held in bond.

Small quantities of whisky and home brew seized at 701 Essen street, Bridgeville, resulted in the arrest of Fernando Compandi, 36, agents reported.

At 5414 Duncan street, the raiders reported finding a 100-gallon still and 30 empty barrels. The still was not in operation. Raids on six dwellings in the city yielded the agents small quantities of moonshine and home brew.

Mrs. Miller Assails Dry Law at Institute

UNIVERSITY, Va., July 1.—(AP.)—National prohibition was denounced as folly that will end in failure and defended as a benefactor of mankind, in addresses at the Institute of Public Affairs here last night.

Mrs. Carroll Miller, of Pittsburgh, representing the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, said the overwhelming reason for what would be the overthrow of prohibition is a denial of moral freedom.

'OLD IRONSIDES' READY FOR SEA

BOSTON, July 1.—(AP.)—With more ceremony than attended her original departure from Boston on a mission of war more than a century and a quarter ago, the frigate Constitution, most famous of all American warships, was today made ready for sea again.

As sound and fair once more as a maiden vessel, only today's commissioning ceremonies, turning her over to Com. L. J. Gulliver, her new master, held her in port. Tomorrow, at noon, she will slip down the harbor in tow of the navy tug Grebe to begin a tour of eastern seaports.

To Lieut. John A. Lord, the last naval constructor of wooden ships in the service, goes much of the credit for restoration of "Old Ironsides" to seaworthiness. As a labor of love, he replaced every unsound timber and plank in the old vessel and left her as close in every detail as humanly possible to the proud ship that went down the ways at Hartt's navy yard here in 1798.

The two men were arrested April 8, more than a month after Miss Gordon, alleged blackmailer and vice inquiry witness, was found strangled to death in Van Courtlandt Park.

"We are not disposed to make his prior criminal record a barrier to his restoration for continuance upon a career of legal living and decent citizenship."

Collegiate Cast Is Featured In Newest Picture of University Life

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate

HOLLYWOOD, July 1.

All the principals of Paramount's college story, "Touchdown," have been under-grads themselves.

Frances Dee, who'll play the girl in the Frances Wallace story, was a co-ed at the University of Chicago before she came to Hollywood to crash film gates, via the extra route.

Frances Dee

Dick Arlen played freshman football at St. Thomas College, quitting there at the end of his first year to enlist in the war-time aviation service. He also was on the team of Central High in St. Paul.

Charles Starrett, the other male lead, played on the Dartmouth varsity. He got his first film experience when the squad was used in Richard Dix's picture, "The Quarterback." Starrett, now playing opposite Billie Dove in "The Age for Love," almost never got to Hollywood. He was to have gone with the ill-fated Varick Frissell expedition, but signed a contract with Paramount at the last minute. As you'll recall, the ship carrying the company exploded in Eastern waters and many were lost.

A LOST TRIBE

Hollywood cowboys tell a yarn about the producer of western serials who boasted his Indians were "just off the reservoir."

LATEST GOSSIP

A certain Russian director recently made his first picture in Hollywood. The first day he called the cast at 9 a. m. and worked till midnight. The second day, he worked from 9 a. m till 2 a. m. The next day was a repetition of the second. And at the end of the three days he was three days behind schedule . . . According to word reaching here, D. W. Griffith started a picture in New York. Possibly it is a film called "Courage," that he is scheduled to make on the United Artists schedule. D. W. has been wanting to act in a picture for a number of years. It may be he will take this opportunity . . . A well-known Hollywood manufacturer of cosmetics ships five carloads of makeup weekly . . . Edward Goodman, Paramount director, sponsored a new stunt. He rented a beach-house for a swimming party and charged guests for their bathing suits. The proceeds to go to charity . . . Erich von Stroheim has his hair cut twice a week . . . Jack Oakie is getting third billings in "Come On Marines." William Boyd and Buddy Rogers top him . . . Adrienne Ames, who recently was given a tryout contract at Paramount, goes home every night to an expensive house in Beverly Hills. She is a poor little rich girl.

Jack Oakie

WELL, HE MIGHT HAVE BEEN

It seems I was wrong about Richard Dix working on a trolley-car. He writes me:

"Slight error in your column last night. When I was 4 years old I wanted to be a minister and at 8 years of age a street car conductor. Have given it much thought since. I may have to resort to same before I am through, but at present have two better offers. Kindest personal regards.—Richard Dix."

DEFENSE OPENS IN OHIO TRIAL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 1—(AP.)—Witnesses refuting the great volume of testimony the state presented during the last three weeks to prove Ray Thomas, Mahoning County prosecutor, guilty of blackmailing, were called to the stand by the defense today.

The defense started its testimony late yesterday after an unsuccessful attempt to obtain a verdict acquitting Thomas on the grounds that the state had not made a case. Judge H. W. Jewell, of Delaware, assigned here for the trial, denied the defense motion.

Appellate Judge L. T. Farr said that he did not remember Thomas appearing before him in 1928 as a representative of Common Pleas Judge David G. Jenkins with regard to the release from jail of a detective of the Youngstown Municipal Railway.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Ora C. Parks, "ahead" of 101 Ranch Wild West, which will exhibit Friday and Saturday at the Penn and Fifth avenues circus grounds, says Indians are publicity hounds. Here we have been thinking for years that the noble redman was a stolid stoical chap who became emotional only under the influence of the medicine man and showed the effects of mental whoopee only in ceremonial dances of the tribe. But it seems that he can manifest much interest about himself, and that he dearly loves to see his picture in the paper. And can get het up, too, if there are any mistakes. Chief Underground, for instance, becomes peeved if he sees his own portrait printed with the caption stating that it is Chief Eagle Eye. "I wonder what I called that Indian whose picture we had here the other day? As my hair already is thin enough, I have decided to print no more Indian heads. Any "art" 101 Ranch may get in this department tomorrow or next day will depict cowboys or cowgirls, about whose names one is not so liable to become confused. As I stated before, I haven't got much hair, but, such as it is, I like it.

For the family

Now you have two ways of buying The Champagne of Ginger Ales. When you want lots of ginger ale for the family or parties, you'll find that the new large size saves you much time and trouble. For smaller quantities, the familiar 12-ounce bottle fits your needs quite admirably.

Midnight Sailing

It was so gay—your cabin choked with flowers,
The plaint of ukuleles down the way;
How strange it seemed that in a few short hours
Our paths would swerve—I neared you—tried to say
Some tender thing for you to take as token,
But I was one of many in the room,
The warning came—and last goodbyes were spoken,
And I came back to earthliness and gloom.

So many months will pass 'til your returning,
So much of youth and romance you will find
That doubtless you'll spend little time in yearning
For hapless lads that you have left behind.

But may your ship make harbor safe and clear—
It carries such a precious cargo, dear.
—The Old "Heart."

Anything for a Laugh

Those who are left of the one-time renowned "Algonquin Group" now collect in Dorothy Parker's suite at that hotel. The repartee swapped there is devastating. Everything goes. It doesn't matter whether you are a smallie or a biggie, if the flip-crackers are in the mood, you go "on the pan," and the Big Idea is to get clever and "top" the other cracks.

And Miss Parker, of course, invariably scores by squelching her own guests. The other night, frinstance, she crushed her celebrated visitors with:

"Fevvensakes, somebody open a window—this room is stuffy with Fame!"

I Get It

Charles Ludlow reports that conditions are so tough in Hollywood they now are naming pastry after actors.

"Cinema-bums."

Tooting His Horn

At a convention dinner in Hollywood, Warner Brothers used a novel idea. Instead of using place cards for guests, copies of famous novels were placed on their plates.

When Darrel Zannuck, the director, ankled in, he looked all over for his name, and finally sat down in front of the book—"The Genius."

Here, Too!

A Form of Criticism

Eddie Cantor was discussing the recent raids by the Warners on the Paramount roll of stars. The Warners, you know, have been "stealing" Para's best features with money offers and Paramount is going a little mad.

While Eddie was chinning, a fellow walked into the studio.

"What do you want?" asked Cantor.

"I want to see Nanes Carroll," said the caller.

"Miss Carroll doesn't work here," said Eddie; "she's a Paramount star."

"O. K.," was the indifferent retort, "I'll wait."

O, Well

"Dear Walter," writes C. P. Greneker, of the Shubert Theater Corporation, "in going over some old correspondence today, I ran across a letter dated June 29, 1926, the original of which was sent to Mr. J. J. Shubert, and read as follows: 'Mr. Winchell, the critic, told me to tell you about a man named Morton Downey. He is appearing at the Playground Cafe and he is a young boy who sings, plays the piano and whistles. Mr. Winchell says he is clever, handsome and would be an asset to one of your revues. In other words, according to Mr. Winchell, he is ripe for Broadway and is certainly worth looking into.'

"I thought (concludes Mr. Greneker) you would be interested in receiving this because it shows what a good picker you are. Sincerely."

That was in 1926, Mr. Greneker. Now, in 1931, the same Mr. Downey, in a magazine interview, handed me a typical Broadway-Thank-You. Which is why, sir, I have cut out being a Big Sissy and now go around frightening children and punching invalids.

Nifties

In the I. Elinson manner: The Red Menace troubling most of us right now in the sun-burned back . . . These days it's tough on the chap who is a Jack of all Trades. Look at all the jobs he is out of!

Heheheh

It was in front of the Palace, reports Toto. Two lay-offs were shop-talking. One of them began raving about the colored show, "Rhapsody in Black." The listener was in a fog thinking of his dim future.

The "Rhapsody in Black" enthusiast, however, kept explaining the show, relating this feature and that one. After five minutes of it, the foggy one, still at sea, queried:

"You don't say? And how was Harry Richman?"

This Town of Ours

What with Chinatown, the Bowery and other points going tame and uninteresting, the sightseeing bus operators have to think up new "gags" to entice trade. Broadway, of course, is where most of the buses start, and after you've seen Grant's Tomb, the Battery and Aquarium, you find that you've witnessed nothing to write home about.

So the sightseeing buses have "routed in" the home of the late Starr Faithfull in St. Luke's place, Greenwich Village. The buses pause there while the barker briefly tells of the beautiful girl's mysterious death.

Neighbors have complained to a former neighbor, the Mayor, to have the practise stopped, as if he hasn't enough to get gray about.

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for the Dictionary of Best Similes: J. P. C.: His heart was harder than a Fifth avenue bus seat . . . Philip Culkin: Courageous as a tenor in a drunken quartet . . Irvin S. Cobb: Love is like a butterfly. It may hoover over a flower garden and, then again, it may light on a city dump . . . Ted Cook: Tossed aside like yesterday's indignation . . . Baffled as a Congressman trying to express himself in a 10-word telegram . . . Helen Rowland: A car is like a wife. When a man first gets one, he is afraid somebody will try to steal it; but, after a few years, he begins to wonder wistfully why somebody doesn't.

In Fewer Words

Farrar and Rinehart, the publishers of the new mystery tome hit, "The Columnist Murder," would like to know, they write, what we like best about the book.

The fact that it is fiction!

Sought by Allegheny County detectives and representatives of the State Securities Commission since January, James Ritchie, 37, was arrested in Chicago. He is held as one of the directors of the Atlantic Drug and Chemical Company, which representatives of the State Securities Commission declare defrauded 300 residents of Western Pennsylvania out of approximately $500,000 through stock sales.

Informations were filed last January before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan against 10 officers, directors and salesmen. They were charged with conspiracy to cheat and defraud and misdemeanor and false pretense in connection with alleged violations of the state securities act.

David S. Hammond, secretary of the concern, was arrested at the time, and was to have gone on trial last month with Henry M. Bass, president, and A. I. Thompson, a director. Bass and Thompson were not arrested.

Ritchie was one of the directors named in the informations.

DRY LAW SQUAD MOPS UP RENO

RENO, Nev., July 1.—(INS.)—Wide-open Reno, the "biggest little city in the world," was bone dry today after a flying squadron of 36 prohibition officers, led by Chief California Administrator William G. Walker and his aide, Col. George Seaver, had descended on the city.

Seventeen of the city's best known establishments were visited by the raiding officers, who arrested more than 40 bartenders and attaches.

Fight fans, race fans, divorcees and Reno's usual thirsty population looked at each other with dismay as word of the raids went around. The city hall resembled a movie "mob scene."

Educate Parents, P. T. A. Head Urges

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—(AP.)—Educate the parents, says Mrs. Hugh Bradford, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the pathway for children through life will have been made. No home, she told the national congress, meeting in conjunction with the National Education Association convention here, however adequate in itself, can be isolated from community influences, nor can any school, however well prepared for formal education, function without the support of the home and the community.

Bullet Found Cause Of 'Death by Heat'

CINCINNATI, O., July 1.—(AP.)—Cincinnati authorities today reopened the investigation of the death of Jone Menzie, 63, Greensburg, Ind., reported by the coroner last Sunday as a heat victim.

Greensburg authorities notified Cincinnati police that Dr. E. E. Riley, of Greensburg, performed an autopsy on Menzie's body and found a bullet wound in the heart caused his death.

Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston

Prominent Pittsburgh Clubwoman, thus adds her approval to the new Frank & Seder Lower Price Policy . . .

"As one of the buying public, I would say that your move to lower prices, so as to have necessities within the buying reach of everyone is most commendable—and any move in this way deserves the endorsement of all women, who are, I believe, generally the buyers for their respective families."

Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston

Another Prominent PITTSBURGH CLUBWOMAN

appreciates the value of the FRANK & SEDER policy of LOWERING PRICES to RAISE the VOLUME of public buying... We don't expect the man out of a job to buy but if the EIGHTY-FIVE PER CENT who DO HAVE JOBS would BUY WHAT THEY NEED their own jobs would be more secure and they would help make work for somebody else... GIBBONS WITH M'NAMEE .·. Two Local Stations To Take Big Fight .·. REVELERS RETURN

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Selection of Floyd Gibbons to assist Graham McNamee in the Stribling-Schmeling fight description over KDKA and WCAE Friday night at 11 o'clock, EDST is an answer to the boxing fans' prayer . . . Gibbons can see more action with one eye than most of us can with two . . . but the point is will he be able to arouse our enthusiasm like old reliable Mac? . . . we shall see . . . Al Clark ventures a prediction on the fight over KQV at 9:45 tonight after having visited the camps of both pugilists . . . "Gentleman Jim" Corbett has something to say, also, on WCAE at 10:30 . . . KDKA with the Goldman Band WCAE with the return of The Revelers Quartet and WJAS with the Golf Banquet from Toledo, complicate matters for the listener at 9:30 . . . Connie Boswell of the famous Boswell Sisters, sings alone on the WJAS program at 10:45.

Bernice Claire appears Sunday night with Dave Rubinoff's Orchestra, which hereafter will have a guest star each week in place of Maurice Chevalier, who has gone home to France . . .

Allen Thrasher, former KDKA announcer, has been bitten by the golf bug . . . he went out to practice yesterday morning at 9 o'clock . . . returning from the fifth tee at 5:45, the groundkeeper mistook him for a caddy and paid him off with $2.30 . . .

Speaking of golf reminds us that Percy Boyd of KDKA has made all arrangements for the battle of the century among local stations . . . sometime in August . . . there is a subtle insinuation in Mr. Boyd's request that we act as official scorekeeper "because of our experience" . . .

There are almost enough Pittsburgh artists in New York to produce the NBC tribute to Stephen Foster on the red network this Saturday night at 8 o'clock . . .

KDKA is to carry Clarence Darrow's speech from Memorial Hall Sunday afternoon at 4 . . .

Irene Jones, brunet of "20 Fingers of Sweetness," appears in recital with Mathilde Harding, her sister, on WJZ and chain Sunday afternoon at 6:15 . . .

Count John K. Chapel, with his trim goatee, is the most picturesque of announcers at the present time . . . his Twilight Reveries on KQV daily at 5 has been commended by seven clergymen and thousands of listeners . . .

Two choice seats for the July Fourth afternoon game at Forbes Field were awarded Miss Mary Ferguson, of 7206 Witherspoon street, Morningside, by Jack and Tony of KQV today . . . she wrote what W. D. Shaler and "We Now Present" considered the best poem about the popular tea . . . F. E. Dilks, of 111 North Fifth street, Jeannette, rated honorable mention.

Guy Lombardo is back in New York after a two-month tour, resumes his Thursday and Saturday late broadcasts over Columbia immediately . . .

Lee Morse, blues singer, who recently gave up CBS for NBC because there wasn't enough "vo-de-o-do" at Columbia, appears on WEAF at 7:30 tonight and 7 o'clock Saturday . . . she is a direct descendant of Zachary Taylor . . .

How many remember Jack . . . once announced Empire Builders from Chicago NBC? Jack is now commercial manager of WWVA at Wheeling . . . .

Alwyn Bach is being dogged these days by a Great Dane . . .

Nick Kenny opines that Ben Bernie refused an engagement in Tahiti on the grounds that he is so careless with the ashes of his inevitable cigar that if they made him wear a grass skirt he'd set it on fire . . .

Dick Bower, WCAE engineer, sends us a pretty booklet from Boston and adds that there actually is a town of Skowhegan, Maine, with 15,000 people the town made famous by "Uncle Abe and David." . . .

The Eno Crime Club (CBS-WJAS next Monday) has caused great interest on WABC and should be a thriller for local lovers of mystery . . .

After spending three hours trying to locate a "Mr. Pennant" at the William Penn Hotel, a radio artist you all know finally found Gordon Flagg, congenial assistant manager . . .

The Sponsor of Sacred Songs had an excellent concert last night.

Daily Problem

Dear Mr. Martin:

Submit this one to "Sisters of the Skillet" when they come here.

I am a left-handed eater and always have been. My brother, who is right-handed, sits next to me. There are nine big eaters and we are pretty much crowded at the dinner table.

Every time I bring a fork to my mouth, my brother's arm collides with mine, thereby jabbing my cheek. This is rather annoying.

Please don't tell me to teach the rest of the family to eat left-handed as I have tried this and it failed. Also don't tell me to eat right-handed.

HERMAN C. AUTH,
622 Penn street, Sharpsburg.

Question a Day:

Is it true that Joe White, NBC tenor, wore a silver mask for a long time because a jealous woman threw acid in his face?—Miriam D., Lincoln place.

Answer—First time we have heard that story, Joe, quite a handsome fellow, wore a silver mask to arouse curiosity. There was a yarn too that he was an overseas veteran who had his face half shot away in the war. Jim Simpson had Joe White at the Pittsburgh Radio Show a couple of years ago. We saw Joe many times without the mask; he is not disfigured.

Mellow, mild tobaccos that need no parching

ANY tobacco expert will tell you that parching would ruin the flavor of the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camel cigarettes are blended.

Heating to that extent is an emergency measure resorted to only as an attempt to take part of the bite and burn and sting out of harsh, strong tobaccos.

We do everything to bring you Camels in factory-fresh condition, preserving for your enjoyment the natural moisture together with the rich, rare flavor and aroma of those choice tobaccos.

That's why Camel smokers hold so persistently to Camels. They simply can't enjoy the stale, flat smoke from dried-out, moisture-robbed tobacco.

You see, every Camel package is now a humidor that excludes dust and germs and guarantees factory-fresh Camels to every smoker.

If you are not a Camel smoker, switch over for just one day. After you have discovered how mild, how cool they are to your throat, then leave them for stale hot smokes—if you can.

● Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against sweat, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until you smoke the last one.

Why not swim, too?

A clear skin and a strong body add a touch of loveliness to any man or woman

Regardless of whether you swim or not it is human for one to want to be more attractive. Often one can gain a clear skin and a strong body—the kind that makes you feel like your natural self again—simply by adding New Strength to the blood.

When your vitality is low and you feel weak, don't care to eat, have lost weight, your skin is sallow, pale or broken out with pimples or boils, you may be sure that your blood is in need of New Strength.

Rich, red blood for New Strength

Rich, red blood plays a dominant part in maintaining health. It builds and sustains . . . removes impurities from the tissues . . . gives Strength. When you add New Strength to the blood and bring it back to normal, your whole body is invigorated and strengthened . . . you are better able to resist infection and disease . . . your skin clears up . . . your cheeks become rosy . . . more vitality and pep naturally follow. You know a clear skin comes from within.

S.S.S. makes rich, red blood

S.S.S. is famed for its ability to build New Strength in the blood. It does it safely and effectively. One of its distinct advantages is that it is composed of fresh vegetable medicinal ingredients in concentrated form. Indeed, it is Mother Nature's formula. It has an enviable record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality in the blood—this New Strength naturally makes for better health and happiness.

S.S.S. is sold in two sizes. The larger size contains 20 oz. and represents a price saving.

If constipated, try KLOK-LAX . . . it "acts on time."

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, July 1.—Remember the prophecy that radio some day would be used by heads of governments to appeal to the peoples of other lands in regard to some pressing matter of statecraft?

The prophecy has come true. All because of Hoover's plan. Well, plan, then, if you prefer. It was our notion we'd have to wait until the war clouds were gathering before we'd see any direct dependence placed upon the radio as a medium of international appeal. And we thought when that time came our own President would be the first to seize the microphone in an effort to maintain peace.

The Germans beat us to the gun. Rather one German, Chancellor Bruening. Without any ado, without any preparation, he cleared his throat the other night and made a dramatic appeal to the people of France to forget the war and co-operate in pulling the world out of the economic heebie-jeebies.

To our mind it marked a great epoch in radio. It showed what a vast force it has become in communication, it showed what potentialities it possesses in enabling peoples of one nation to hear in their own homes the viewpoints of another nation. It may be that just such a startling broadcast carries within it the peace of the world. A boogy man can't be so terrifying when his voice comes into a million homes.

The chancellor's talk, they say, went on the air one hour after it was announced, created great surprize in both Germany and France. It must have seemed strange for the listeners of both countries to hear that the "well-being of Europe and of the whole world depends upon the co-operation of those who were enemies in the war."

The chiefs of radio speak more wisely than they know when they predict, as they have in the past, that the greatest factor of international good will lies in a little metal box called the microphone. Their dreams seem to be coming true.

Enterprising, too, are the broadcasters in bringing the around-the-world fliers, Gatty and Post, to the eardrums at various stages in their journey. Most of the technical difficulties of trans-Atlantic radio have been overcome as was proved by the clarity of the voices broadcast from Berlin.

With today ushering in torrid July, and with the "little season" over, many of our society folks will be leaving the city for summer homes in the coming days. To be sure, there will be folks who'll stay here all summer in their shady homes in the East End and Sewickley Heights.

The Horace Forbes Bakers, of Sewickley, will open their summer place at Bass Rocks, Gloucester, Mass., again this season. Mrs. Baker and her children, Francis and Mary, are leaving today.

Leave For East

The Walter Cockrill Carrolls have opened their place in Wianno, Mass., and the family has gone there. They have two daughters, Mary and Florence, prominent Junior League workers, and a son, Walter Cockrill Carroll, Jr.

Already at the Burchfield summer home, "The Birches," Paris Hill, Me., is Miss Mary Burchfield. Mrs. A. P. Burchfield, her mother, will join her in August.

Saturday will be children's day at the Allegheny Country Club. That afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock, there'll be a program of entertainment given for little sons and daughters of members. And of course there'll be refreshments. Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson is again chairman of the party, given annually.

After president's day has passed (it's set for October 8) the members will begin their study with "Ancient Beginnings." The Invention of Typography—Coster or Gutenberg?" "The History of Printing Presses," "Colonial Newspapers and Magazines" will take up one afternoon in November and "Other Printer Pioneers" another.

A guest day is slated for later in the month, to be followed by interestingly compiled programs on "Processes in Illustration," "Illustrators" and "Newspapers."

Mrs. Miller Discusses 'Folly of Prohibition'

In an address on "The Folly of Prohibition" before the School of Public Affairs, University of Virginia, Mrs. Carroll Miller, representing the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, said yesterday:

"When the Eighteenth Amendment is abrogated, not nullified as is sometimes suggested, then we shall see a better and a wiser day for our harrassed and unhappy nation. When that day comes it will find the enlightened and the understanding studying the causes of intemperance, preparing laws for the protection of the weak and advising that the different states make laws best suited to their own particular needs."

After stating that prohibition has failed on every count and that it has accomplished nothing which its advocates had promised for it, Mrs. Miller said:

"From the time children are able to reason, wise parents develop their character through mental training, moral example and wise precepts leading to personal responsibility.

Develop Character

"They grant their children the greatest of freedom consistent with their years and training and are convinced that as their children develop resolution and knowledge, they will grow in strength and beauty of character and thus be able to choose between right and wrong.

"The Eighteenth Amendment stands in opposition to such parental guidance, for it presupposes that the youth of this country will never evolve beyond the early stages of childhood and, as mothers, we resent such interference with the moral training of our children. This is the inherent weakness of this prohibition theory and consequently its practice must be fraught with failure."

Widow Has Fling At Romance; Taxi Bill $400

SOUTH NYACK, N. Y., July 1.—(AP.)—A venture in romance has cost Mrs. Ida Barrett Wheaton $400, representing a 1,778-mile taxicab trip to Walkerton, Ind., and back.

The 55-year old widow of a war veteran, she became engaged to another veteran by mail. Something seemed to be interfering with marriage plans. Hence the taxi to Walkerton. There she decided there should be no marriage. She taxied home. The elapsed time of the round trip was 60 hours.

FREIGHT RATES UP IN PARLEY

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce was to meet at 4 p. m. today to discuss the application of the railroads of the country for permission of the Interstate Commerce Committee to increase their freight rates by 15 per cent.

The meeting was called by President Thomas A. Dunn last Saturday. No regular meeting of the chamber directorate is held during the months of July and August.

At today's meeting, the board was to receive a report from the general traffic committee which last week, under the chairmanship of W. F. Morris, Jr., vice president of the Weirton Steel Company, sat in on a study of the question.

VOTE OFFICIALS APPOINTED

Two election board officers and three assistant assessors have been appointed by Judge George V. Moore, in Quarter Sessions Court, as follows:

Minority inspector, First District, Aleppo Township, Mrs. Frances Burckart, Killbuck road; vice Paul Hibala, deceased.

Vote to Assess High-Priced Pastor

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 1.—(AP.)—Mandatory assessment of salaries of the higher paid clergymen has been voted by the Southern California conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, to insure new minimum salaries for ministers in the lower pay classifications. The plan was approved yesterday to assure payment of at least $1,200 a year for single ministers.

PROPERTY TAX PERMITS VOTE

Property owners who obtain receipts for the county tax on their property can vote on that receipt and need not pay the 50-cent poll tax, according to an oral opinion submitted to the County Commissioners yesterday by County Solicitor M. B. Lesher.

The 1931 Legislature passed the 50-cent poll tax law and the bill was signed by Gov. Pinchot last May 13. It replaced the former occupational tax which non-property owners had to pay in order to have a receipt for voting purposes.

In the case of property owners, the occupation tax was included in their property assessment and the county assessment board now is making deductions of the occupational tax upon application of the taxpayer.

'AMAZON' WIFE DIVORCED

Married to an "Amazon," according to his testimony, Richard Schley Caldwell, 823 Sandusky street, was granted a divorce from Betty Jean Caldwell, now of Oklahoma, by Judge Frank P. Patterson in Common Pleas Court. He charged cruelty and indignities, testifying:

"She fought like a perfect man."

She swung an ice pick and frequently when angry she kicked him in the stomach, Caldwell testified.

She often threatened his life, he said, and once hit him on the head with a picture. They were married December 31, 1928, in Butler, and parted April 28, 1930.

LINEN EVENING GOWNS TO BE POPULAR THIS SUMMER

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 1.—Our grandmammas were wont to refer to their best linen nightgowns and their granddaughters are now able to discuss their best linen evening frocks. For we are able to report that the summer evening frock of linen has arrived and will no doubt score a material success. It is a natural corollary of the organdie and cotton net frocks that are helping to make the summer livable despite the times. And so, as it may not be smart to be sartorially lavish, it is good that such good-looking and pleasing alternatives to opulence have been provided. One can fare forth in a linen evening gown and be one of the new poor in a very graceful manner. For once here is an economy tip that has everything to recommend it. It's no wonder that dressmakers have learned to lean on linen.

LELONG IS THE clever designer who is featuring linen evening frocks. And to show you how charming such a model can be we are sending you a sketch of a delightful frock in this medium. It is of soft light blue handkerchief linen and is lavishly trimmed with tiny frills of white organdie worked by hand with rows of hemstitching. As this charming long-skirted gown has a low decollette in the back, it is evidently quite of the dressy summer evening type of garment.

* * *

A NEW JERSEY called "tricot cellulaire" makes this semi-sports costume from Worth. The little cape, shirred and tying in front, is separate. The gilet, neckline, sleeves and skirt yoke are all scalloped. The skirt is flaring. Two roses are placed on one shoulder. This is a typical example of the ideal frock for general all-day, town or country wear, when one desires a frock that is neither of the sports or dress category and yet is not too simple for a luncheon.

MANY COMMUNITIES ENFORCE BAN ON FIREWORKS

STRICT RULES REGULATE OTHERS

Mt. Lebanon Prohibits All Displays Except Those Arranged by Experts

Sale and use of fireworks are restricted or banned in virtually all the larger communities of the county in the interests of a safe and sane Fourth this year a canvass shows.

Mt. Lebanon Township, largest suburban center of the South Hills, has placed a rigid prohibition on use of fireworks except displays specially arranged by experts. A fee of $50 to sell fireworks was thought sufficient to discourage dealers from handling them, police reported, but three took out permits.

Sale of fireworks was begun today in Swissvale. Burgess William Pyle has banned any shooting of them before the Fourth.

No giant crackers or skyrockets are permitted in most communities, while as a rule the shooting of pyrotechnics is banned before July 3 or 4. This regulation prevails in McKeesport, Sewickley, Avalon, Bellevue, McKees Rocks, Dormont, Coraopolis, Wilkinsburg and Homestead.

Many boroughs canceled the traditional municipal fireworks displays this year.

Pedestrian Injured As Cracker Hits Face

Struck in the face by a firecracker tossed from an automobile, Frank Tonaszeweski, 32, of 833 South Canal street, North Side, was injured this morning. The cracker exploded within a few inches of his eye, severely burning it. He was walking in Progress street at Chestnut street when hit by the explosive.

A lighted firecracker, tossed by one of a group of children at play, fell near a leaking gas line in Pinehurst avenue, Dormont, resulting in an explosion and fire last night, according to police.

The explosion blew a manhole cover across the street and Dormont firemen were called to extinguish flames shooting from the sewer.

Phila. to Enforce Ban on Fireworks

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—Any one who explodes fireworks in Philadelphia on Independence Day will be subject to arrest under an order issued to the police yesterday. The police order said the ordinance prohibiting the exploding of fireworks will be strictly enforced, regardless of whether the explosives were purchased outside the city limits.

Workmen are razing a number of historic buildings in Montgomery avenue, North Side, to make way for the $200,000 temple to be erected by Islam Grotto, which officials say will be ready for occupancy at the winter ceremonies next December. The auditorium, with a capacity of 1,800, will extend from Diamond street to Sandusky street. It will have the second largest stage in Western Pennsylvania.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 1.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

No news outside those fliers making a sucker out of the world. Southern Methodist Conference out here passed a resolution asking Congress to exempt them from war. Don't know what claim they had over other denominations unless it's that they are always fighting so much among themselves that two wars at once would be a hardship on 'em. Mellon is still coaxing the French. Looks like he will have to give 'em a "bonus" to accept his plan.

Yours, WILL.

BRANDON SEEKS ELECTION TO COUNCIL

Ex-Magistrate Urges Tax Cut, Backs Investigation In Announcing Candidacy

Declaring emphatically in favor of a reduction in taxes, A. D. Brandon, former magistrate of Morals Court, today announced his candidacy for City Council on the Republican ticket.

In making public his decision Brandon said:

"After careful thought I have determined to submit my name at the coming primary as a candidate for City Council on the Republican ticket.

FAVORS TAX REDUCTION

"I feel that my familiarity with public questions, gained through half a life time spent in the newspaper business, as magistrate of Morals Court of this city, and close active association with civic affairs, fits me to deal with the questions constantly before Council in an intelligent unbiased and efficient manner, and if nominated and elected I can and will serve the people of our city to the very best of my ability.

"I favor emphatically the reduction of taxes, particularly as it effects the small home owner. The affairs of the city can and should be conducted upon an economic and business-like basis.

"I stand for a thorough public investigation of any department of the city government and audit if necessary.

OPPOSES FIREWORKS

"I am opposed to the sale of explosives for the celebration of July 4 or at any other time excepting in the regular course of their necessary use in business.

"I believe that the operation of the present Police and Firemen Trial Board is a travesty on justice, and its organization and administration should be corrected.

"I believe in the proper organization and operation of the Civil Service Commission, which should and can be a protection for both the public and the officeholder, and not the plaything of petty politicians, as is now the case.

"I am no 'reformer' and do not believe that a Puritan village can be created in a great metropolitan city, but I do believe that vice and crime can and should me minimized by the elimination of politics from the Police Department and Magistrates' Courts.

Omnibus Measure Preamble May Invalidate Repealer; Senator Informs Group

Members of half of Pittsburgh's former Boards of School Visitors, newly organized into a voluntary association of private citizens, were waiting today to hear if the bill that threw them from office is constitutional.

At the suggestion of State Senator William D. Mansfield, they pinned their hopes on a possible flaw in the amendment to the Mansfield omnibus bill, amending the state school code, which is responsible for their loss of office. The bill was passed in the recent legislative session.

Mansfield told the visitors, meeting for organization in the Chambr of Commerce last night, that he had asked legal advice on the constitutionality of the repealer. His doubts, he said, were aroused when he saw that the preamble to the bill failed to define its contents clearly.

Mansfield is chairman of the Senate Committee on Education. He attended the meeting last night to disclaim responsibility for the repealer. He admitted it was a mistake and promises to work for the board's reinstatement.

Mansfield said:

"Had I known what I know now, I would have afforded the group an opportunity to look over the proposed measure. The Board of Education, through the Legislative Digest, had every opportunity to know of the proposal.

"I'm sorry I didn't know about your work, because I was in a position to kill the bill, and I'm sorry I didn't do that. It's just too bad that this bill was passed."

BLAMES BOARD

In answer to criticism from the assemblage, Mansfield stated that in the four months previous to final passage there was no objection to the repealer, origin drafted to shorten the ballot, said the Board of Education had been sent copies of the bill but had taken no action.

Work at the meeting included election of a chairman, vice chairman, a recording and a corresponding secretary. Invitations were issued to private citizens interested in Pittsburgh schools to join the organization.

The Board of Education was criticized by Mrs. Ethel C. Mueller, 3143 Shadeland avenue, chairman-elect and originator of the new association, for its failure to cooperate with the visitors and its failure to block passage of the repealer.

WILL CONTINUE WORK

A resolution to continue their former work was passed by the meeting. It was determined to submit suggestions to the board through a committee representing the entire city.

A committee was named to draft by-laws and a constitution for the "School Visitors' Association" for presentation at the next meeting early in September.

Officers elected included: Mrs. Mueller, by acclamation, on motion of Senator Mansfield; John G. Swint, 1807 Morningside avenue, vice chairman; Albert R. Blisk, 8107 Perchment street, recording secretary; Mrs. Blanche B. Pearsol, 3 Randall street, corresponding secretary.

BOY CAPTURES MONKEY

"Midge," a pet monkey of Robert Reeser, a cleaner and presser, of 815 Middle street, North Side, was back home today somewhat tired from the hectic time it had last night.

"Midge" escaped just as Reeser was about to harness it for a daily stroll. The animal ran for the first pole and, once on top, began looking at Reeser and others who joined in the chase.

North Side police were swamped with telephone calls when "Midge" began walking the electrical wires and jumping from one rooftop to another. Its antics amused the children, who blocked traffic by crowding around. Police tried in vain to capture the animal.

The chase ended five hours later when a boy captured "Midge" on the roof of a house in Peralto street. Police said the monkey ran over more than 200 rooftops within a radius of three blocks.

All's Straight Now in Europe But Pisa Tower

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Everything in Europe is straightened out now except the Leaning Tower of Pisa. And we're working on that.

They have a new idea on moratoriums. It's a lessatorium now.

You borrow more. And pay less.

The American businessman must do the best he can. As the European diplomat said to Mr. Mellon:

"You ain't got nothing to worry about. You ain't run out of apples yet."

The moratorium is only the comparative stage. Wait until they reach the mostatorium. Then you will see the fur flying where only feathers grew before.

We like everything about this financial soup except the taste. That old love song, "Let's Forgive and Forget," is beautiful.

But I never get a chance to sing it.

FRY APPROVES AIRPORT WORK

Twenty members of the Aero Club and the aeronautics committee of the Chamber of Commerce inspected the City-County airport this morning, both from the air and on foot. Capt. Jack Morris piloted the air tour.

Raymond A. Tucker, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee, and Louis T. Barry, president of the Aero Club, expressed their approval of the work done.

Col. H. C. Fry, Jr., city representative on the airport commission, said:

"This stupendous job has been well and quickly done. Probably no city in the country would present as many difficulties as are presented here, but when this airport is finished it will give us one to which we can point with pride."

John A. Fugassi, superintendent of maintenance of county roads, said the runways, equal to 50 miles of highways, would be completed within three weeks.

COUNTY SUPPLY BIDS REJECTED AFTER ROW

Commissioners Order New Safeguards After Firm's Responsibility Is Doubted

A competitor's charges that the low bidder for road materials was not financially responsible and lacked adequate distributing facilities prompted the County Commissioners yesterday to throw out all bids and call for new ones.

The commissioners ordered the specifications to be tightened so that each bidder would be compelled to show he was solvent and had proper equipment. The low bidder was the International Combustion Tar and Chemical Company, the accuser was the Koppers Company. A third bidder was the Neville Company.

The materials included 150,000 tons of hot tar for road surfaces, 75,000 to be delivered in packages and tank cars and 75,000 in automobiles with mixing devices. The International bid was 10½ cents a gallon for packages, 7½ cents in tank cars and 14 cents by automobiles. Koppers bid 15.95 cents in packages, 14.95 cents in tank cars and 10.95 cents in automobiles.

Bids for the year's requirements of penetration macadam tar ran as follows: International, 10½ cents in packages, 7½ cents in tank cars and 14 cents by automobile. Neville Company, 13½ cents in packages, 9 cents in tank cars and no bid by automobile. Koppers, 15.95 cents in packages, 14.95 cents in tank cars and 14.95 cents by automobile.

Koppers representatives claimed that International was in the hands of a receiver and had no automobiles to make deliveries. International people said they would be able to live up to the contract and had posted bond as a guarantee.

DECLARES NEW SOCIAL ORDER NEGRO'S HOPE

Thomas Asserts Black Race Is Victim of 'Sick Epoch;' Addresses Mass Meeting

A new social order holds forth the only hope to the American Negro, Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president in the last election, declared at the opening mass meeting of the twenty-second annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Ebenezer Baptist Church last night.

Asserting the Negro had been the victim of an acquisitive society which had broken down, Thomas said a society based on the dignity of the work and the harnessing of the toil and science to the service of mankind was the only next step.

CITES 'SICK EPOCH'

He declared:

"We live in sick epoch. With machinery enough to abolish poverty it has multiplied the misery of economic insecurity. Witness the tragedy of 7,000,000 unemployed. Its false ethics of profit have brought the nemesis of racketeering upon us.

"There is no hope, save in a new order of society based on co-operative production for use, not profit, upon planning, international and not merely national, for an interdependent world.

"In this sick society the Negro is peculiarly the victim. He is the worker par excellence, and the marginal worker at that, most pathetic of all the victims of unemployment and landlordism."

ATTACKS SEGREGATION

Robert W. Bagnall, director of branches of the association, declared segregation has made Christianity in America "a sorry jest to human brotherhood." He said:

"The church is strangely mute as to the racial wrongs, and itself indulges in race prejudice. No white church in America would accept a Negro as pastor."

Mary White Ovington, chairman of the board of directors of the association, also spoke.

Greetings were read from President Hoover, Senator Arthur Capper, Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, of New York, the New England Conference of the Socialist Party and James Marshall, a member of the board.

MAYVIEW BILL UNDER FIRE IN COUNCIL

Waldschmidt Rule Sought In Row Over Legality Of Informal Purchase

The City Law Department today was considering legality of a bill for $134 or 1,033 gallons of gasoline bought for Mayview without an order from the head of the institution.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt will be asked whether employes of city institutions and in the various departments have the right to order supplies by telephone even when emergencies exist.

Councilman W. Y. English charged that an employe called the Gulf Refining Company several months ago and ordered the fuel delivered to Mayview. This, he said, was after the yearly contract had been made with the Parmalee Company.

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, in an explanatory letter to the Councilmanic Public Welfare Committee, pointed out that an emergency existed at the time because the contracting company had not had time to begin filling the order.

English voted against paying the bill, and denounced the Mellon interests. The Mellon organization owns the Gulf Refining Company.

He said:

"The Mellons can't do everything and get away with it. I make a motion that whoever was responsible for this order be made to pay it and his bondsman notified."

Council voted against his motion.

The cottage was occupied by Michael Jankowski, his wife and their three children. Leetsdale and Edgeworth firemen were called, but the cottage was virtually destroyed when they arrived. The fire caused damage estimated at $1,000.

SUHR MAY BE TRIED AT SECOND BASE

THERE IS A POSSIBILITY that Jewel Ens may make one more experiment in the series of shifts he started some time ago with a view to bolstering the Pirate infield around the midway. Already Ens has tried four men in his efforts to plug the hole at second base. George Grantham, Bill Regan, Lloyd Waner and Howard Groskloss have all been used there. If the present arrangement, with Groskloss playing the position, does not prove satisfactory or bring the desired results, the next move may be to put First Baseman Gus Suhr at the keystone sack.

Gus Suhr

Ens is known to have had this step under consideration for some time, and may yet decide to give it a trial. At that it will not be wholly in the nature of an experiment, as Suhr is by no means a stranger to the position. Though he began his professional career as a first sacker at Quincy in 1925, Gus played second base and shortstop for San Francisco in 1926, second base during the entire season of 1927, and was at second again during part of 1928 before he was permanently shifted to the first hassock in 1929.

NOR WAS IT because of any fault found with his work at second base that Suhr was converted into a first sacker by the San Francisco club. It is understood that the deal which brought him to Pittsburgh was shaped a year before its consummation, and that the Pirate chiefs requested his transfer to first base in the Seal lineup in order that he might be given a season's schooling in the position where the Bucs desired to use him.

Meanwhile, reports from the East say that Groskloss is performing at second base in satisfying style. Moreover, the youngster has shown that he can hit and that he is a hustler with plenty of pepper and nerve. He is smart, too, and makes few mistakes, in spite of his lack of minor league experience. All around, he has been acting like a veteran and doing a good job on the assignment.

BUT ONE THING which may work against Groskl[illegible]ung kept steadily at second with the object of developing him [illegible]ular is the fact that his studies at Yale medical scho[illegible]ent him from devoting a full season to baseball.

Howie will not be able to report back to the [illegible]es next year until late May or early June and the Buc manager may take the view that it would be inadvisable to develop for the troublesome position a player whose services will not be available at the start of next season. It would be necessary then to fill the place all over again in the spring.

THE REMARKABLE INFLUENCE that the annual William Randolph Hearst amateur junior golf tournament has had in developing and improving the youthful players of this end of the state was demonstrated by the sensational performance of Walter Simpson in winning the fourth yearly West Penn tourney under the auspices of the Sun-Telegraph on the Schenley Park course. In making the amazing score of 29 for the incoming nine holes, the 17-year-old Washington County Country Club boy was four under par, a feat to stagger the older golfers of the district. And at that, with his total score of 66, Simpson won out by only two shots over Aleck Ronie with 68, while right at the heels of the runner-up were eight players with scores of 69, three with 70 and five with 71. That's golf, in the main, that would do credit to grown-ups of long experience. The popular Hearst tournaments have developed the skill of junior players in Western Pennsylvania to a degree at which it compares favorably with the best game played by boys anywhere in the country.

Bill Shores

THAT CONNIE MACK is not alarmed at the predictions of rival managers in the American League that his pitching staff will prove too small to win another pennant is made evident by his action in cutting Bill Shores loose and shipping him to Oakland in the Pacific Coast League.

As a starting pitcher, Shores won't be missed. He didn't win a game for the A's this year, started only twice and was knocked out both times. Other skippers have declared that Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg will need all the help they can be given to keep them from cracking, but if Mack had shared their views he probably would have hung onto Shores for relief roles, if nothing else. Connie now has only Lee Roy Mahaffey, Eddie Rommel and Hank McDonald to back up his Big Three.

SHORES, only 26, and with but two complete seasons of major league service behind him, goes out of the big show in a growing parade that is made up mainly of much older players. One by one the veterans are passing on.

Joe Dugan was followed by Pete Donohue, now Wally Schang has been added to the list, Harry Rice is in line for a release and Sheriff Blake was on the way out when the Phillies refused to waive. Schang saw service with five clubs, played in six world series and got a cut out of another in 19 American League seasons. Nearing 41, he was the fourth oldest active player in the majors, his only seniors being Jack Quinn, Urban Faber and Dolf Luque.

FOOTBALL MAY BE out of season, but a prospect that another native son of this district may shine on the gridiron for the Army, as did Ed Garbisch, Harry Wilson, Tiny Hewitt, Paul Miller, Cy Letzelter and others, commands attention in any kind of weather. Herman LaMark, of Coraopolis, for the last two seasons fullback for New York U., on which his brother, Joe, played quarterback last fall, has another year to go on the Violet eleven before he graduates, but that does not prevent him from planning farther ahead. Unless his plans go awry, the sturdy Italian hopes to be admitted to West Point afterward, and that will mean four more years of football following his New York U. career. Herman left today for a boys' camp in Connecticut, where he will remain until September 1, before going to Long Island to join the Violet squad for football practice.

SPEAKING OF FOOTBALL stars who are taking up boys' camp work this year, Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's former all-America quarterback, and rated the greatest field general of his time, has arrived in Los Angeles to take charge of a summer camp for boys at Redondo Beach.

Carideo's first visit in Los Angeles was to Joe Savoldi, his former fullback mate and now a wrestler, who had just scored another victory on the mat over Abie Coleman. Though Carideo arrived too late to witness the grappling number, Savoldi had another old squad mate at hand to root for him in the person of Moon Mullins, from whom he took the fullback job at Notre Dame.

ETHAN ALLEN, Giant outfielder, today had gone into the records as the eleventh major league player to accomplish the ultimate in BOSTON, July 1.—Aside from the spirited antics of one of Pittsburgh's natives sons there is little else than gloom in the Pirate camp as the July stretch of the National League race appears on the scene.

Only Howie Groskloss, of Sheraden, kept the Freebooters from looking very badly as the Tribe tanned them yesterday, 5 to 1. Groskloss appeared to have as much ginger as the remainder of the team collectively and he turned in a play that made many gray-haired Boston fans think of Johnny Evers or Jack Barry.

MAKES FINE PLAY

With Berger on first and one out in the third round, Howie sprinted directly behind second in pursuit of a hot smash from the bat of Randy Moore. He was in a fast stride as he scooped up the ball with his bare hand. He had to be a clever boy to make an accurate pass to Tommy Thevenow, but the shot was as deadly as it could be made, and the fleet Berger was forced. The riled Moore was mad because he lost a hit, and Randy had a kick coming. It was a remarkable bit of fielding, yet the kid turned the trick as though he had done nothing outside his line of duty.

Either Heinie Meine or Glenn Spencer will attempt to heckle the Tribe this afternoon in the third game of the series. Skipper Bill is expected to counter with Harry (Socks) Seibold.

The Pirates are due to close their disastrous eastern trip here tomorrow. They will hustle toward Pittsburgh tomorrow night, but Friday will be an open date. The day will give the Freebooters time to prepare for the dual clash with the Cardinals at Forbes Field on the Glorious Fourth.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: GEORGE HAMILTON—GOVERNOR OF VIRGINIA—George Hamilton, Earl of Orkney (1666-1737), was a famous English general. He was appointed Governor of Virginia by Queen Anne of England in 1700, and, although he held this position until his death in 1737, he never once crossed the Atlantic to set foot on the soil of his colony. A succession of lieutenant governors actually administered the province in his name, some of them, like Spottswood, Drysdale and Gooch, becoming famous in the history of Virginia. (See: Howison's "History of Virginia," Vol. 1, Page 411.) FISH CAUGHT IN DEATH VALLEY—Although Death Valley is known to be the hottest and one of the most lifeless places on the earth, John Edwin Hogg, of Alhambra, Cal., finds profitable commercial fishing at Saratoga Spring, in the southern end of the valley. Scientifically the fish are known as "Cyprinodon macularius" and are in great demand among fish fanciers and aquariums. Their colors range from bright silver to an irridescent electric blue, with large bright eyes that flash like electric sparks.

TOMORROW: THE STATE THAT HAS HAD SEVEN FLAGS.

SHIELDS, WOOD GAIN FINAL

WIMBLEDON STADIUM, England, July 1.—(AP.)—Frank X. Shields, American Davis Cup youngster, today defeated Jean Borotra, of France, in the semi-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships to make it an all-America final. The scores were 7-5, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Shields fell at the net in the eighth game of the deciding set and had to be helped off the court for emergency treatment, but returned to blast the French musketeer to defeat.

He will meet his former Roxbury School classmate, 20-year-old Sidney B. Wood, Jr., in the final Saturday, young Sidney having defeated Fred Perry, of Great Britain, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, in the other semi-final match. Shields himself is only 21 and was playing at Wimbledon for the first time.

VICTORS FINISH STRONG

Both Americans fought their toughest battle in the first set of their respective matches. Wood lost the first set to Perry, but steadied down to take the next three in a row.

Shields won his first set, but was compelled to extend himself to the utmost to take it, 7-5, and lost the next to Borotra, who appeared to be finding his pace. But the American later opened a burst of dazzling speed which held the Frenchman at his mercy.

In the critical eighth game as he went to the net behind a serve Shields slipped and fell. He had to be helped off the court, his face twisted in pain. Borotra hurdled the net to help him off and gave first aid treatment with the aid of officials.

After a five-minute delay the match was resumed and Shields went on to win from 40-30 and make the count 5-3. Play again was stopped while Shields rubbed his leg, which still was paining

JAMES HAMMOND — W. C. FARQUHAR

Farquhar was the winner, 1 up, over Hammond in the hard-fought 36-hole final round match for the championship of the Pittsburgh Field Club yesterday.

FARQUHAR WINS GOLF TITLE

The 1931 golf championship of the Pittsburgh Field Club is a proud possession of W. C. Farquhar today. Yesterday, in the final match of the club championship tournament, Farquhar defeated James Hammond, 1 up, after 36 holes of fine golf. The match was one of the most brilliant in the history of the club's title competition and was not settled until the last hole, when Farquhar sank a short putt to cinch the victory.

The fighting qualities of Hammond were very much in evidence in the morning round. After being 3 down at the turn, he won four holes in succession, and when the round was completed had an advantage of 2 up.

Farquhar squared the match on the twenty-third green and became 1 up on the twenty-fourth after sinking a long putt. The long thirty-third became a nightmare for Farquhar, who took a big 7, and then Hammond squared the match on the short thirty-fourth with a par 3.

The thirty-fifth was halved in 4s, and the home green found Hammond on in 2. He took three putts, while Farquhar chipped to the pin and sank the pellet to win the match. The cards:

SUN-TELEGRAPH EVENT WINNER SHOOTS 66

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Equaling par for the first time in the history of the competition Walter Simpson, 17-year-old caddie at the Washington County Golf and Country Club, won the fourth annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph junior amateur golf tournament, and the William Randolph Hearst Trophy at the Schenley Park municipal links yesterday, when he scored a 66 to maintain a two-stroke advantage over his nearest competitor in a field of 413.

Simpson, out in 37 and home in a phenomenal 29, four under par, held two strokes over Aleck Ronie, Castle Shannon entrant, who was runner-up.

Eight were tied for third place, and will have to play off for that honor. Those who scored 69s were Bernard Guentner, Winston (Buster) Wertz, Sam Nalesnick, Frank Podmilsak, John Stubbs, Arthur Tobias, George M. Brannigan and John Kostick.

TIE IN FOURTH

Deadlocked for fourth place were Bill Smith, Dave Wilson and Tom Madden, at 70.

Just outside the pale of glory with 71s, were Steve Pyren, San Musico, Bud Dresmich, John Zamiska and Andrew Lesniak.

Members of the Castle Shannon Golf Club caddie team copped the beautiful plaque that goes with that honor. They aggregated 294 points; Beaver Valley, 299; Schenley Park, the defending champion, had 303; Edgewood recorded 305; Thornburg, 307, Nemacolin scored 300; Schenley Park, the defending champion, had 303; Edgewood recorded 305; Thornburg, 307, and Oakmont, 307.

Members of the winning club caddie team, and their scores, were: August Buckey, 76; Aleck Ronce, 68; John Peckorich, 73, and John Kletch 77. Winston Wertz, 69; Sam Nalisnick, 69; Al Nesbitt, 79, and Art Zubrowski, 84, made up the Beaver Valley team.

Simpson is a fine boy and played excellent golf throughout his match, particularly on the inward journey, as his 29 attests. Any boy who can score one under 3s for six holes is shooting golf—even on a chip and putt course.

Guentner, Wertz, Nalesnick, Podmilsak, Stubbs, Tobias, Brannigan and Kostik will play off their tie probably next Monday, while a date soon will be set for the playoff between Smith, Wilson and Madden.

SCORES ARE GOOD

Among the other good scorers in yesterday's tournament were Charley Kush, Ted Miller, William Di Pietro, Ralph Ross, Peter Halahan, Louis Keener and Aber Weister, who registered 72s, and Andy Benjamin, Julius Balough, Andy Gaspar, Andy Yalch, Gil Risso, Stan Dombrosky, Arthur Weltner, who scored the first hole in one in the first Hearst tourney, Joe Urso and John Peisezki, who had 73s.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—I don't know what happened to the St. Louis Browns, but lately they've been poison ivy in the other clubs' spinach. The Browns started the season without water wings and sank so fast they left a couple of bubbles as their permanent address. They were so low in the standing the Missouri fans used to commute to Kansas City to see a ball game when the Cards were out of town. But lately the Browns got cocky from feeding on eagle meat. They tossed the Athletics around like a medicine ball, so during our Washington club's sojourn in St. Louis we are using armor for our traveling uniforms.

Do you knock on wood every time you set out for an airing in the car?

Is your heart in your mouth when you swing into a curve at a little more speed than the law allows?

There's nothing like a set of junky old tires to take the joy out of driving.

Why worry about blowouts when you can buy sturdy Goodyear Pathfinders at present levels?

Never in the history of the automobile has tire mileage been priced so low.

SCHMELING, STRIB END TRAINING TODAY

CHALLENGER ADDS DRILL TO PLANS

CLEVELAND, July 1. (AP)—Safely back on the ground after a daring airplane ride over his opponent's training camp, Young Stribling hurled new defiance at his handlers today by suddenly announcing that he would box again tonight in preparation for his quest of the world's heavyweight championship.

Stribling intended finishing his training last night in accordance with previous plans. All preparations had been made for him to come to Cleveland today and to go into seclusion until time for him to go into the ring to battle Max Schmeling, the titleholder, Friday night. But Stribling, full of eagerness to get going, evidently decided to defy his manager, Pa Stribling, just as he did in borrowing an airplane yesterday and flying over Schmeling's training camp at Conneaut Lake Park.

After tonight's workout, Stribling intends coming into Cleveland to hide out in a private home in an exclusive residential district.

CHAMP ON EDGE

Schmeling will wind up his training today donning the gloves for the last time until he is called into the ring to dedicate Cleveland's new municipal stadium. When he finishes his boxing this afternoon he will have boxed an even 100 rounds at his training camp. Schmeling's workout yesterday was impressive. In the three rounds he faced Panka, Schmeling unleashed a two-fisted body attack, weaving in and out to escape Panka's leads.

The champion in the one round he boxed Tony Marullo, of New Orleans, practiced one-two punches, straight rights to the head, left hook and right uppercuts. After the workout, Schmeling weighed 190 pounds, a pound over the notch he expects to scale when he faces Stribling.

FIGHT ON AIR

The fight will be broadcast over the National Broadcasting Company's network with Graham McNamee at the microphone.

George Blake, of Los Angeles, chosen as referee will arrive in Cleveland tomorrow afternoon for a conference over the rules. He will arrive in Chicago by train and depart immediately by airplane for Cleveland.

KING OF JUNIOR GOLFERS!

WALTER SIMPSON, WINNER OF THE HEARST GOLF TOURNEY

This is the 17-year-old caddie of the Washington County Golf and Country Club who won the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's fourth annual junior golf championship tournament for the William Randolph Hearst trophy at Schenley Park. He is the first winner in the history of the event to equal par of 66 for the course.

ROMANO WINS OVER RUSSIAN

Before a fair-sized crowd at Hickey Park, Millvale, last night Mike Romano, of Italy, threw Ivan Vacturoff, of Russia, after 33 minutes and 34 seconds of wrestling in the main event. After tossing his opponent over his head, Romano applied the double-elbow lock which enabled him to pin the latter's shoulders to the mat. Romano weighed 200 pounds and Vacturoff 215.

It took Tara Mayaki, 188, of Seattle, Wash., 19 minutes and 27 seconds to throw Casey Berger, of Massachusetts.

Dick Daviscourt and Milo Steinborn were billed for the semi-final bout, but it was announced from the ringside that both had been injured in bouts Monday night and were unable to appear. Daviscourt, however, evidently staged a quick recovery, as he engaged in a bout in Baltimore last night against Kola Kwariani, of Russia, and was thrown in 22 minutes.

In three 30-minute bouts, Steve Znosko, of Poland, weighing 215 pounds, threw Tom Draak, of Holland, 208, with a body slam; Tiny Roebuck, of Oklahoma, 265, pinned Firpo Wilcox, of Nebraska, 230, subbing for Rudy Dusek, with a half-nelson and a crotch hold and in the opener, Charley Allen, of the South Side, 190, threw Pete Verlinich, of Leetsdale, 215, with a body scissors.

the 74 ranks; Henry Rakoski, Joseph Dunn, Alfred Watson, Jack Walsko, Joe Marks, John Hahalvak, Joe Getsko, Joe Battick, Chris Paterlini, fourth last year; Andy Kosan, Orland Bruno, Mike Evanish, Jack Scott, Ed Houston, Armandeo Intrieri, Joe Litwin, Vic Circant and Bruno Meneghini.

John Jay Burke, city office manager for the Allegheny County Parks, was honorary director and chairman of the arbitration committee, which also included S. Walter Phillips and Joe Platt, while such notables as Bob Graham, Schenley pro; Edmund Onoretta, assistant pro; Walter Johnstone, pro at Butler; Joe Pazelli, pro at Duquesne; Paul (Toots) Erath, caddiemaster at Edgewood; Andy Petrolia, caddiemaster at Schenley; Joe Connor, Chartiers Heights caddiemaster; C. H. Klingensmith, G. S. Nycum, Bob Gumbert, Eddie Kunold, Tom Keefe, Tom McDonough, Jimmy Bruno, Alcoma caddiemaster, Jim Conrad, South Park caddiemaster; Chuck Bruce, caddiemaster at Thornburg; M. J. Hapschuck, assistant pro at the Country Club, and others assisted.

Among the women assistants were Mrs. Ann Conrad, Kay Donovan, Mrs. Margaret Curry, Mrs. Wallerstedt, Mrs. Josephson and Mrs. Headlee.

The largest gallery to follow an individual match in many a day at Schenley Park followed the two former champions, Athony Myers, of Etna, who won last year, Joe Stevenson, of Penn, Pa., 1929 victor; Chris Paterlini, fourth last year, and Dave Wilson, of Stanton Heights, always among the leaders. Wilson led the four ball match with his 76, none of the others being able to play up to their regular game.

The prizes will be presented at a special banquet for the purpose, at a date to be announced soon.

Other scores in the club caddie team competition were: Alcoma, 313; Wildwood, 320; St. Clair, 321; Greensburg, 322; Chartiers Heights, 323; Sewickley Y. M. C. A., 324; Youghiogheny, 325; Shannopin, 326; South Park, 331; Westmoreland, 335; Highland, 337; McDonald, 338; Pittsburgh Field Club, 339; Harmar Golf Club, 345; Hill Crest, 351; Valley Heights, 356; Butler, 360; Pup's Foot, 361.

It was the most successful junior golf event ever staged by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

M.-A. LEADERS SCORE WINS

Middle Atlantic League teams yesterday went about their business with no changes in the standings and with the Cumberland Colts remaining safe in first place.

The Colts turned in another fine hitting performance to down Clarksburg, 12 to 3. Helmick limited the Generals to five hits.

At Scottdale, the Scotties won another one, defeating Fairmont, 6 to 4. It was the fourth consecutive triumph for the Scots.

Johnstown was blanked by Wheeling, 8 to 0, garnering only four safe hits from the combined deliveries of Merritt and Query. Charleston nosed out Charleroi, 4 to 2, Miller pitching a fine four-hit game for the Senators.

Huntington added further to the woes of the newly-admitted Parkersburg nine by taking a 9-to-5 decision. Beckley defeated Altoona, 6 to 2.

Long's Sport Comment

pinch-hitting—a home run with the bases full. No pinch-hitter has ever done it twice. Of the 10 other instances, seven were registered in the National League by Beals Becker, Johnny Cummings and Pat Crawford, for the Giants; Charley Tolson, for the Cubs; Cy Williams, for the Phillies; Watty Holm, for the Cardinals, and Lester Bell, for the Braves.

Jim Thorpe

The only American Leaguers to do it were Marty Kavanaugh and Joe Connolly, for the Indians, and Al Simmons, for the A's. Tolson's clean-up pinch homer for the Cubs was made against the Pirates when he batted for Percy Jones in the seventh inning of a game at Chicago on May 1, 1927.

ONE OF THE most interesting features of the A. A. U.'S national championship track and field meet at Lincoln, Neb., Friday and Saturday, will be the attempt of Wilson (Buster) Charles, Indian athlete from Haskell Institute, to retain the decathlon championship, which he won here last summer, and to prove himself a worthy successor to that other red-skinned all-around champion of the past, the once mighty Jim Thorpe. Meanwhile, Thorpe, who "went Hollywood" recently, is getting ready for his bow in the movies, in which he is to play the part of Chief Black Crow in Universal's coming serial dealing with the early days of the West. Swinging a pick and shovel for $4 a day wasn't such a bad break for Thorpe after all, as it would appear that the story of his plight attracted the attention of movie men and resulted in his getting his present chance in the films. If screen press agents were not known to be above such tactics, it might be suspected that Mr. Thorpe was planted on that pick-and-shovel job so that he could be discovered and photographed and headlined by the newspapers throughout the country in a fashion not likely to do any serious harm to a movie in which he was to be featured.

YAROSZ FACES M'TIERNAN TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

The local boxing fans are prepared for almost any outcome in the Buck McTiernan-Ted Yarosz battle at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight.

Ted Yarosz

On the one hand they have McTiernan, seemingly the class of the local middleweights or heavy welterweights. And, on the other, Yarosz, a youngster of 21 years, who has not lost a decision in 43 professional starts.

McTiernan is carrying off the big end of the gate and running the risk of losing prestige. Yarosz is glad to fight for the short end with an opportunity of scoring an upset victory over a favorite and going on to bigger things.

Yarosz, who hails from Monaca, but has done much of his fighting in Ohio, has been begging for a chance against the better men of his poundage for several months, and he fairly jumped at the chance to box McTiernan. He believes he is ready to take on anybody, and many of the fans who have seen him in his best fights give him a great chance against Buck, who also has a 10-round battle slated at Huntington, W. Va., Saturday afternoon, with Donald Fogg, of Terre Haute.

Nordi Smith and Billy Holt, rival Negro welterweights, of Homewood, clash in the eight-round semi-final tonight, with Eddie Hebner, of Clairton, and Meyer Frager, formerly of Chicago, in the second bout, and Frenchy Jennings, of Carrick, and Johnny Warner, of Clairton, in the opener at 8:45.

Between Rounds

Jimmy Moore, local Negro middleweight boxer, who has had some stage and radio singing experience, soon may be singing over a local station. Jimmy, at 24, boxing quite a career. He has sold insurance and stock, in addition to singing and fighting, and is a worker in the Warren Methodist Episcopal Church here. He hails originally from Cincinnati and while in California several years ago boxed Leo Lomski and Eddie Roberts, among others. He is keen about a return bout with Mickey Solomen, saying he had a bad hand when he lost to Mickey recently at Hickey Park.

The much-postponed Battling Battalino-Bobby Brady featherweight championship bout at Jersey City is back on the boards for tonight. King Levinsky boxes Ace Hudkins in Chicago tonight.

'Tis said that Johnny Ray, who acted as Jackie Rodgers' chief second in his return bout with Chico Cisneros in the Meyers Bowl, Monday night, had a lot to do with the plan of battle adopted by Jackie, which netted him a knockout victory in the seventh round, after he had covered throughout the preceding sessions.

George Blake, manager of Fidel La Barba, and one of the best referees in the land, is an excellent choice to handle the Schmeling-Stribling fight in Cleveland, Friday night. Blake's reputation for honesty is a byword in the boxing game.

Mose Butch wishes there were more Eugene Huats in boxing. Huat is one of the fellows who do not shy at fighting a southpaw, which is what Butch happens to be. The Frenchman, former holder of the European bantamweight title, for that matter, also is one of those fearless persons of the ring sport who have been in there with Al Brown, elongated and hard-hitting Negro, who holds the world bantamweight title. He has boxed the best of them in this country and in Europe and Butch figures he has before him a great chance to enhance his worth as an attraction in this clash.

OPEN COURSE PAR BETTERED

TWO PROS HAVE FINE ROUND AT TOLEDO

TOLEDO, July 1.—(AP.)—Tough Old Inverness, with its yawning traps and tightly buttoned fairways, absorbed a pair of clean-cut knockouts yesterday as most of the sharpshooters of the national open golf championship field settled down to serious drills.

The staggering wallops were riffled off the clubs of Leonard Schmutte, Lima, O., professional, and Harold Samson, of Burlingame, Cal., who beat par by a good margin.

Schmutte breezed over the course with a brilliant 68, three shots under par, while Samson, one of the longest long shots in the big push, which starts tomorrow, came back to the clubhouse with a 69 and a confident grin. Schmutte went out in 33 and came back in 35 for his round, which was one shot under the competitive course record.

There is some prospect that Charles Whitcombe, captain of the British Ryder Cup team would not play in the championship. He went to a Detroit specialist Monday with a bad knee and was ordered to take a complete rest for 48 hours or more. He was on deck yesterday, but took it easy.

"Another factor in the discontinuance of the grid sport was said to have hinged on the expense of employing a coach and other costs incident to the game."

Bell Wins Twice In Clay Court Play

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—(AP.)—Berkeley Bell, of New York City, former Davis Cup player, furnished the outstanding performance in the second day of play in the national clay court tennis tournament here yesterday.

Reliance Life and the Homestead Aces for the championship of the West Penn Leagues. That is the tit-bit facing sandlot fans this evening. The game will be played at Homewood Playgrounds. The Insurance nine must win the battle to get into the playoffs.

A victory for Jack Fertig's aggregation means the first-half title. Dutch Spencer and Bill Gormley are both ready to work for the Lifers. Fertig will pin his faith on either Conley or Miller, with the last named having the inside track.

The other game in the loop finds the Martin club crossing the bridge to do battle with the Marty Griffin club.

In the City League, Johnny Dunsky will take his North Side Bucks to Dormont to meet the South Hills team. Dormont is waging a fight with Homewood for the first-half championship and will probably shoot the works to try to get this game in the bag. Books gave the South Hills aggregation a drubbing on Monday.

One game will be played in the Steel City loop. The de Pasquale club, of Oakland, will hook up with the Brodericks at Marshall Park.

Camp Horne will see its second game of the season this evening when Frank Rush takes his Railroaders to meet Hornes in the C. & I. League. The writer took a look at Sammy Craig's outfit against Reliance. The game was lost, but Hornes looked good in defeat.

Bunts

With Tom Moucher taking over the reins of the Maulins a much better record in the second half of the North Side Twilight League is expected. This evening many changes will be in the lineup against St. Anthony's Tavern. The Stamm Club, of Sharpsburg, will be met tomorrow.

The Crawfords will be the attraction at Hartman Park meeting Linwood on Friday evening. Lefty Hall is being primed to meet the Hill club. The game will be called at 6:30 sharp.

SHIELDS, WOOD GAIN FINAL

him. Borotra, serving, took the ninth game to make it 5-4. Standing almost on one leg Shields whipped across three almost unplayable service balls. Borotra sending back only weak returns. Jean won the fourth point, but Shields smashed over a ball Borotra didn't see to win the game, the set and the match.

CILLI AUSSEM WINS

Cilli Aussem, Germany's ranking woman tennis player, won her way to the semi-final round by defeating Miss Payot, of Switzerland, 2-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Her victory gives Germany two places in the semi-finals, the United States one and France one.

Fraulein Hilda Krahwinkel, the other German player, will play Miss Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., in one semi-final match tomorrow while Miss Aussem plays Mme. Rene Mathieu, of France.

The veteran French doubles team of Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon defeated the Japanese pair of Jiro Satoh and M. Kawachi, 4-6, 6-2, 8-6, 6-4, to enter the semi-finals. They will play Shields and Wood tomorrow.

out to challenge Brame. Frankhouse had three victories in succession under his belt, the Cardinals and Cubs being his victims. Then he proceeded to hold the Pirates to five hits.

And Skipper Bill had a good County Fair hitter to spring on the Pirates in the very first inning. Randy Moore came in from left-field to third base in an emergency, and the first thing he did to celebrate his new job was to belt a three-run homer into the rightfield seats. The early four-sacker ruined the game for Pittsburgh.

The Pirates made their only tally in the fourth on Grantham's single, a wild pitch and P. Waner's single.

Are Country Visitors Worse Than Those From City?

The Summer Visitors—

The Beaming Blights who barge in uninvited and eat you out of house 'n' home—to say nothing of wrecking the furniture and raising Cain with your disposition.

Missis H. had much to say about City Folks like that who came romping down all over her country farm . . . and she was plenty mad! So's Missis R. But it's country cousins who get her goat. Listen—

"Dear Sally:

"I'd like to hold a debate with that country wild flower who wrote a line of chatter about Summer Visitors from The City. Believe me, country people aren't the only ones who have pesty company.

"I ask you—is there a family in any large city who has ever had a ghost of a chance to relax and enjoy any celebration without some country visitors crashing the gate—and with the usual yokel brazenness, plopping their grips down for a right good rest?

CAUSE DAMAGE

"And when I say rest, I mean that a derrick couldn't budge—when it comes to dishing up the victuals—or washing the dishes. And their country appetites are bigger and better every visit. The only thing they possess that they ever give is their time—and they give plenty of that!

"They may not bring any liquor with them—but they're usually the Funnel Gang—if somebody else pays the bootlegger.

"When their visits are over, the scratches on the hardwood floors are deeper than the marks on Mrs. H.'s flower bed—and what the dragging of grips hasn't done, the kid's heels make up for.

"When it comes to ashes, the Country Smoker's pipe is a darn sight more potent than any cigaret. In fact, I know one that smells like a white and black little animal I once encountered on one of my visits to Country Hospitality.

"If I had to pin a medal on the Champion Gate Crasher, I'd give the prize to the Country Hick.

WANT BEST FOOD

"They use no tact. They're entirely without embarrassment when it comes to telling you their favorite dish, which never happens to be any but the highest priced in the market. Their favorite tune is sung with a nasal twang, and it's 'Don't give us any stew, beans or prunes, we eat aplenty of them to hum, and when we visit we like a change!' And try and give them a cheap cut! The way they dodge around a carrot is a riot, and they pipe up with 'vegetables taste better in the city.'

"But do they ever bring any fruit or vegetables or jelly with them? They do not! They sit and tell you how many 'cots' or 'blackcaps' or cherries they've canned, or tell you what pretty jelly they made out of loganberries.

Ye gods! Some day I will start a Revolution, and I will start it in my own home when the Country Bumpkins come a-visitin'. Drat them for pesky varmints! How do they get that way?

"MRS. R."

Whooey!

Are Country Visitors like that?

How about it, Missis Corntossal? Do you take the little Corntossals and settle like Locusts on the City Folks when the circus is in town—or the cops are putting on their big parade?

Come on! This sounds like war! Get in on it!

Fay King Discusses Rich Middle-Aged Women Interested in Young Men

THIS LETTER WILL GET HIM AN EXCELLENT PLACE
MY DEAR DEAR BOY, I AM INTENSELY INTERESTED IN — YOUR CAREER!
THE UTTER AUDACITY OF HIM! ASKING MY HELP FOR THAT CREATURE HE MARRIED! LET THEM STARVE!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

There are many middle-aged ladies of means who are constantly concerned in the welfare and career of handsome young men they meet.

They insist, of course, that their interest is only philanthropic and purely platonic. So it is, most likely.

I have observed that some of the young men take them at their word, and when their benefactresses have got them a good paying position they marry the girls they love.

But then the young men sometimes discover that the middle-aged ladies are not so large hearted as they seemed. There is no room for wives.

And the young men have also discovered that these generous ladies can be just as influential in undoing the good that they have done.

Arrival of Chinese Laundryman Revives Mystery

At Katie's request I rose to my feet, but Katherine's hand on my arm restrained me.

"You know I don't want Mrs. Graham bothered unless it's absolutely necessary," she said with all the authority of a successful trained nurse in her manner, and Lillian gave an emphatic nod of assent.

"Won't I do, Katie?" she asked smiling at my faithful little housekeeper.

But Katie shook her head emphatically.

"Me, I vorry ofer my Missis Graham shoost so much as anybody," she said with a truculent little air of sullen defiance, which each of us ignored. We long since learned the folly of trying to make Katie, most loyal and efficient of workers, conform to the ordinary standards of deference for employes.

"I no ask her nodings I can do, or anybody else can do," she went on. "But dis, sometings she haf to know by herselluf. She no tank anybody ven she knows for trying hold her back."

Her eyes met mine, and there was an urgent message in them. "Hurry! hurry!" those eyes said, and though I doubted the importance of her summons, there was such panic in her expression that I knew I must go to her aid, even if I found nothing of importance when I reached the kitchen.

"Thank you both," I said, smiling at Katherine and Lillian, "but I really must go with her. I'll come right back."

"Give us a broadcast if you need us," Lillian called after us, and I hoped that she could not hear Katie's contemptuous sniff.

"Ef I need her, I ask for her," she muttered, and stopped by the door of my little "study off the library.

"Can you coom in here, lock doors so nobody hear us?" she asked with so portentous an air of mystery that my apprehensions of something wrong in the kitchen melted away. My little maid was simply having one of her spasms of melodrama. I decided, with a mental grin at Katie's claim to be a real "detecatuff" and the ridiculous "diploma" from a "correspondence school for detectives" which, framed ornately, hung in her little sitting room over the kitchen.

But, I remembered a bit apologetically, there has been a time when I had been most grateful for Katie's "detecatuff" ability. In a highly ludicrous make-up she had solved the problem of the identity of Janet Rawdon, proving the mysterious girl with a still more mysterious bank account to be none other than Dicky's niece, Mary, who was making a pathetic attempt to save her allowance, stinting herself in every possible way that she might aid her fiance, Noel Veritzen, disinherited by his father on her account.

It was with his remembrance in mind that I looked more seriously at Katie as she locked both doors of the little room, and then came close to me with the evident intention of speaking only in an undertone. And I started violently in real apprehension as she put her lips close to my ear and whispered:

"Missis Graham, you remember dot Chinaman laundry fellow coom dot time long ago. He here again, want to see you. Say he vant you hurry he 'fraid stay here long. He act awful foony, make me feel all joompy. I no like have dot man coom again. Last time he coom you go vay and leave your Katie so long."

A Chinese laundryman with an urgent message for me! Yes, I remembered distinctly the day which Katie was recalling, when the local laundryman had brought me a message from Lee Chow, high-born Chinese, and close friend of Hugh Grantland, but who for many years because of his enemies had hidden himself behind the garb and mannerisms of Hugh's faithful servant. That message had indeed sent me flying with Lillian to the foothills of the Adirondacks, where after much searching, we had found Hugh, a victim of amnesia, and the center of a plot engineered by his stepmother and carried out by Lee Chow's mortal enemy to murder both him and Lee Chow, and secure their colossal fortunes.

We had been able to rescue him and bring him back to sanity, and his old life, thus partly paying the debt of gratitude which Dicky and I owed him for his rescue of Junior when he had been kidnaped by Grace Draper. Later he had again put us under the deepest obligation by his uncovering of the plot which Grace Draper, half mad and wholly devilish, had made to throw Mary into the power of Jack Leslie and to weave so tight a mesh of coincidence about him that Dicky should partly believe for an incredulous horrified time, that I was trying to poison him.

Grace Draper had gone out of life a suicide on that awful night and Dicky had learned the truth and done penance for his doubt during months when I felt that my love for him had died completely. And Hugh, the truest and most faithful friend, save Lillian, whom I ever had known, had avoided all possible scandal concerning Mary's escapade as the "masked dancer" by taking Jack Leslie back with him "somewhere east of Suez" and guaranteeing him a stated sum for life never again to show his face on the American continent.

But just before the Christmas holidays Jack Leslie had reappeared in New York, tried to blackmail Mary and instigated an attack upon Noel Veritzen. I had felt then, and voiced my fear to Lillian, that something terrible must have happened to Hugh Grantland, or Jack Leslie never would have had the opportunity to return to America.

And now for the second time I was awaiting a mysterious message from a Chinese workingman. Was it a message of death or disaster?

The Beauty Box -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

Nail-biting is a demonstration of nervousness. The cure is to keep the finger nails so well manicured that there are no rough edges or shreds of cuticle. The nerves at the finger ends are extra sensitive. They set up disturbances. Which fact explains the restless fingers that are forever fussing with hangnails.

When the texture of the skin is coarse, avoid the use of hot water, which is relaxing. Use tepid water and soap, rinse with a washbowl full of cold water to which a few drops of simple tincture of benzoin have been added. Cut down on fats in the diet, eating plenty of green salads, cooked vegetables and raw vegetables—cabbage, turnips and carrots.

There are various means of removing moles. The work is done by medical men who specialize in diseases and blemishes of the skin. No amateur should attempt the job, since moles of a certain character may develop into malignant growth if tampered with. Only the trained eye of the medical man can detect the ones that might prove bothersome.

Faded beauties must apply makeup sparingly. Flamingo-colored lips, eye shadows and cheek smears call attention to wrinkles. A little coloring, laid on carefully, with powder atop the rouge to soften and blend it, will youthify the complexion. Reckless, lavish applications won't do. They make the countenance look haggard and tired.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

"Tetany" Is a Disease of the Ductless Glands

Recently I discussed a disease spoken of as "Tetanus." Because of the similarity in names, it is often confused by the lay public with tetanus or lockjaw.

Dr. Copeland

Tetany differs from tetanus, in that it is not a disease resulting from an infection. It is due to a failure in the proper absorption of lime by the body. This chemical breakdown is due, undoubtedly, to a disturbance in the operation of one of those mysterious ductless glands. In this case it is the "parathyroid gland."

The parathyroid glands are tiny masses of tissue found in close contact with the thyroid gland. The latter is associated with the "Adam's apple," in the front of the neck.

The chief signs of the disease are spasms in the muscles, tremblings and convulsive-like symptoms affecting mainly the hands and feet. It may follow typhoid fever, severe diarrhoea, exposure to cold or rickets.

If the parathyroid glands are removed from the living body this condition will result. It can be produced by any poison that interferes with the human chemistry.

The disease is most frequently seen in children, chiefly those who have rickets. It is most to be expected in severe digestive disorders in bottle-fed infants.

Sometimes there is a spasm of the muscles, especially of the arms. This spasm causes the arm to become bent across the chest. The legs become extended with bending upward of the toes. The muscles of the face are rarely affected. If they are, there is trembling and tremors of the face and a change in the facial expression.

The disease is not a fatal one and recovery takes place within a short period. It is essential to remove the cause. In children the whole problem is usually a question of diet. When that is corrected recovery is prompt.

Baths and cold sponging often relieve the muscular spasms. But it is better that no treatment should be attempted until it is directed by a physician. At times these cases are stubborn and require careful prescribing.

Household Hints

Hang up wool blankets after washing and rinse without wringing. They may take a little longer to dry out, but will keep their shape much better. When the top dries, reverse the blanket. Choose a sunny, windy day and they will not take so long.

Rhubarb juice, squeezed from the ends of the fresh stalks, will remove rust from the clothing more quickly than the well-known method of lemon and salt.

The careful housewife knows cuts of meat just as well as she does the freshness thereof and saves many dollars by buying solid meat and not a great deal of waste in bones and fat.

Don't make that visit to the invalid if you are not in a cheery humor yourself. She will sense it very quickly and even though you try to disguise your mood. Wait until you have a happier day and then do your calling on the sick.

When the odor of gas cannot be abolished from around the gas heater and you have made sure there is no leak, you can be certain the rubber tube itself has become saturated with gas. The only remedy is a new hose.

If the pattern of the carpet or rug has faded, but the material is still good, it would pay you to have it dyed a plain dark color. If too sombre, one small bright rug would be very effective.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Birth Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Please tell me if it is correct to send cards to announce the birth of a child?

2. Does the person receiving the news send a gift to the baby?

Have read your answers each day and often wonder if you are appreciated to your full value.

TROUBLED.

1. No. The best form is the Mr. and Mrs. card, engraved of course, with the engraved small card attached, announcing the name of the new baby and the date of its birth.

Just as often, no cards are sent . . . it is just as one wishes. But "stunt" birth-announcement cards are not in good form.

2. If he or she wishes. Announcements of this kind do not carry the idea of present-expectation . . . or at least they shouldn't.

(Thank you for your friendly comment).

Take Coat With You

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning a trip to North Cape, Norway, leaving New York on July third. Is a heavy musk-coat appropriate on the steamer? M. Y.

By all means take this coat for this trip. If you don't, I am sure that you will regret it!

Don't Interrupt Hospitality

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Quite often I have relatives and friends visit me from another city. As they usually make the trip in one day they have but a few hours to stay, three or four at the most.

They have dinner with us in the middle of the day (usually Sunday). After serving dinner I feel (as their time is short) that it is best to leave the dishes until after they have gone. I have no maid. Is this correct, or should they be washed immediately after dinner? And if they should be done, should the guests be allowed to help if they offer? (Meaning the women guests, of course). MRS. C.

Since the time that your guests can be with you is so limited, I think that your plan is the best one . . . not to interrupt your hospitality by planning to have the dishes attended to while they are with you. It is so much easier to do all this after your guests have left.

For the Bride

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Does the bride furnish all the china and kitchenware?

BRIDE-TO-BE.

Usually.

Now 19% lower in price

KELLOGG'S Rice Krispies has been one of the most amazing successes of the cereal industry. In less than four years, it has grown to be the most popular rice cereal — and one of the largest-selling cereals in the world!

Now comes a 19% reduction in price to enable even more people to enjoy it more often than ever. At this new low price, Kellogg's Rice Krispies are one of the most economical, as well as delicious and distinctive of all cereals. Its cost is only about one cent a bowl.

Children love Kellogg's Rice Krispies. The crisp, nourishing rice bubbles snap, crackle and pop when milk is poured over them. Little folks who are hard to interest in food, dip into Rice Krispies eagerly — fascinated by the crisp crackling.

All your family will enjoy Kellogg's Rice Krispies. Not only as a ready-to-eat cereal — but to sprinkle over ice cream or salads instead of nuts — to use in soups as croutons and many other delightful ways.

Serve Kellogg's Rice Krispies often these hot days. They help you keep cool and fit. At the new low price, they also bring healthful economy to your table. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Financial Markets Show Disposition to Overvalue Political Movements

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The mercurial financial markets of the world have recently shown a disposition to overvalue political maneuvers.

The stock markets swing back and forth like pendulums, usually exaggerating each movement and rarely exhibiting restraint and a sense of proportion.

Mr. Rukeyser

Business and political leaders should recognize that the rebirth of cheerfulness is a distinctly favorable factor, and gives a suitable foundation for sound economic remedial measures. The prolonged depression, which is an inevitable result of the riotous planlessness of our anarchic business system, suggests the need for new social machinery, for better industrial planning and economic co-ordination.

EXPLAINS GAIN

Asked to explain why the Canadian Hydro-Electric Corporation, Ltd., succeeded in bucking the trend and increasing its earnings this year, A. R. Graustein, the president told me:

"The steady increase in Canadian Hydro-Electric Corporation's earnings—they will show an increase practically every month this year over the corresponding month last year—is due to the inherent nature of the company's business and the selling policies originally adopted rather than to any special effort we have made at the present time.

"All but a small part of the company's revenues are derived from sales of power under long term contracts calling for the delivery of stated amounts of power each year at stated prices. The major portion of the power under contract is taken by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

"There was a large increase in the rate of delivery to the commission beginning last October and there will be further increases next October and each successive year until 1938. The physical properties necessary to reduce and transmit the power required for the additional deliveries are all financed and, except for one 34,000 h. p. turbo generating unit now being installed at the existing Paugan plant, are all constructed.

SURPLUS HELPS

"The temporarily available surplus power is sold at secondary rates, so that as the deliveries of primary power under the contracts are increased, there is a substantial increase in revenues with comparatively little increase in operating expenses and fixed charges."

Stressing the same theme, H. D. Pillsbury, president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, in a message to this column, pointed out:

"Our total revenues for the first five months of this year were slightly less than for the same period in 1930, but our net income per share of common stock was slightly better, due principally to management's operating program in meeting the problems which the economic situation has presented."

Wholesale Trade Huge During 1929

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(INS.)—Wholesale trade in the United States in 1929 was valued at nearly $70,000,000,000, the Commerce Department announced today on the basis of reports received during 1930.

This almost equals the gross value of manufactured products, was about six times the gross income from farm production and exceeds the volume of retail business during 1929 by nearly $20,000,000,000, the department said.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Rally — Local Market Narrow

EARLY MARKET SAG CHANGED TO ADVANCE

Midday Rally Lifts List 1 to 3 Points—Trading Still Dull, Professional

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP.)—Bulls grew more aggressive at the start of the last half of the year in today's stock market.

With the intergovernmental debt negotiations still apparently deadlocked, the session began hesitantly, but a better tone in the foreign bourses as their sessions drew to a close was reassuring, and a few prominent bulls resumed active operations in some of the specialties. A midday rally soon developed, of somewhat more impressive proportions than yesterday's. Trading remained sluggish, and highly professional, nevertheless.

Early losses of a point or two were soon replaced by gains of 1 to 3.

The outlook for copper lost some of its recent brightness as buying virtually disappeared, and custom smelters offered metal at 8½ cents a pound. Large producers still stuck to their price of 9 cents, cents.

Mid-week business statistics in general were mildly favorable. As expected, the weekly steel reviews reported a further shrinkage of production. Iron Age placing output at about 35 per cent of capacity, off 1 point from last week. This publication's composite prices for finished steel and scrap were firmer.

The freight car loadings report for the third week of June showed the small gain of 6,663 cars. Although reports are not yet all in, it is now estimated that net operating income for May for all Class 1 roads was about 40 per cent under May, 1930, and 60 per cent under 1929. April showed a reduction of 37 2/5 per cent from 1930.

The weekly petroleum statistics, showing a drop of 432,000 barrels in gasoline stocks, and of 40,400 in daily crude oil output, served to bolster the somewhat improved sentiment in the industry.

Credit remained plentiful, with outside call money offered at 1 per cent. There was a little hardening in quotations for five and six-month time money.

REFINERS LIFT SUGAR PRICE

NEW YORK, July 1.—American Sugar Company has advanced refined sugar 10 points to 4.65c a pound, effective at the close Thursday.

Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company has advanced refined sugar 10 points to 4.65c a pound.

Arbuckle Bros. has purchased a cargo of raw sugar at 3.45c, duty paid basis. This is the high price of the year to date, the previous being 3.42c, established in January.

American Stores Reduces Capital

NEW YORK, July 1.—With the consent of the second preferred stockholders of American Department Stores Corporation a reduction of the capital has been effected, W. H. Jones, chairman of the finance committee, announced. This was accomplished by reducing the amount of capital, represented by the issue of outstanding and no-par common stock, from $1,234,400 to $341,470.

Bond Redemptions Higher for June

NEW YORK, July 1.—Bond issues called in whole or in part in June, of $71,017,620, were only slightly larger in total value than the calls in June, 1930, which amounted to $70,809,335, a compilation by Standard Statistics Company shows. There was a substantial increase, however, over the figures for June, 1929, which totaled $42,974,390.

The new location marks the return to the original building in which W. Neil Evans started in the investment and financial field 20 years ago.

PLAN REVIVES STEEL HOPES

NEW YORK, July 1.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

Although the seasonal downward trend in steel operations is unchecked, the week brought a sufficient revival of buying interest to suggest that the successful outcome of the proposed international debt suspensions might well mark the end of the long decline and possibly the beginning of at least a moderate turn for the better.

Notwithstanding the possibility of further favorable developments, the steel industry can scarcely escape at least another month of very low operations. The average rate this week for the entire country is not above 35 per cent of capacity.

Pig iron buying has shown a slight spurt in some districts. Further curtailment in blast furnace activity is in prospect. On a small amount of buying steel scrap has turned stronger at Pittsburgh, raising the Iron Age composite price to $9.17 from $9.08 a week ago, the first advance since February.

The Iron Age composite price of finished steel has advanced from 2.102c a lb. to 2.127c, based on revised sheet quotations, and is now only slightly below the high of 1931, 2.142c, recorded in January. The pig iron composite has declined from $15.63 to $15.59, the lowest figure since November, 1915.

Standard Predicts Extended Recovery

NEW YORK, July 1.—In a mid-year economic survey published today, Standard Statistics Company states it is our opinion that the basis is being laid for an extended period of recovery.

The United States government's declaration of policy relative to foreign debts, the survey continues, appeared at a time when we had reached a point where deflation in values, efficiency in operation and overdeferred demand have made the entire business fabric unusually sensitive to any manifestly constructive or inflationary development.

Crops in Canada Hit by Drought

OTTAWA, Ontario, July 1.—Further marked deterioration of crop prospects in Western Canada has resulted from high temperatures and meager rainfall in the last week, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said.

The report said the variation in crop prospects has been heightened this year by very favorable growing weather in the East and Far West, and by the critical drought in the prairie provinces.

A. P. I. Oil Figures Decline for Week

Domestic crude oil production in the week to June 27 averaged 2,441,950 barrels daily, a decline of 40,400 barrels from the preceding week, and comparing with 2,610,950 barrels in the like week in 1930, the American Petroleum Institute reports.

Gasoline stocks declined 432,000 barrels during the week to 41,868,000 barrels.

G. T. Ladd Elected Director of Bank

Kitty Is Given an Offer to Become a Model

CHAPTER VI.

After I told Mrs. Wayne that I would become acquainted with this Mr. M. Thad Parsons on the next day, I was sorry I said it.

All the way home from the store I thought of him, tall, handsome, wonderful eyes, just the type I adored.

He was just having fun with me. He didn't want to become acquainted; he wouldn't be back the next day—no such luck! Mrs. Wayne would have a good laugh at my expense.

Still I had his card. He had promised to come back. He had said that he "just had" to get acquainted with me.

He had said he was going to Canada on a fishing trip and then he came back the next three days and finally confessed that he gave it all up in hopes to become acquainted with me.

I wouldn't take any chances; I would be ready. On a small slip of paper I wrote my name and address and added:

"There is a telephone in the hall; we are just poor people, and do not indulge in private 'phones."

I did it for a purpose. If he did ever come to see me he would know what to expect.

Just about noon the next day Mr. M. Thad Parsons appeared at my counter. I wondered what he would think if he knew that I had been down in the book department and looked him up in a social register.

I was waiting on a customer at the moment. He loitered about until she had gone and then gravely asked for some blades.

"One can always use them, they keep, you know," he said, smiling at me and adding in a lower voice, "I hope you won't disappoint me."

KITTY IMPRESSED

I shoved out the folded slip of paper. He gave a glance at it.

"When do you have luncheon, Miss Mason?" he asked.

"At 1 o'clock."

"Will you have it with me?" He named a still famous old hotel down near Washington Square. "I have a car with me and I'll get you back in time."

I agreed and he said he would meet me. I told him where the entrance was that the employes used.

He was there with a cute little car and I noticed that the license number was extremely low. I knew that low license numbers usually meant that someone of importance owned the car. From the way he got salutes from the traffic cops on the way down I was greatly impressed.

In the hotel cafe he began speaking French to the waiter, and it was a marvelous luncheon.

Synopsis

Katherine Mason, a shop girl, believes the chief object in life is to play around and have a good time. Peter Thompson loves her, but as he is a poor boy, Katherine can't "see" him. She meets a "sugar daddy," and has many a gay party until she finds out that he is married. In the shop she unwittingly makes a conquest. Thad Parsons, extremely wealthy and a top-notcher in society, wants to become acquainted with her.

Now Go On

"I just felt that I wanted to know you—and I hope we'll be good pals," he said as soon as he had given his order.

"I hope so," I murmured, not knowing what else to say.

"I have an engagement at the club tonight, could I see you tomorrow? I'm not in town much at this season, but surely we can have an evening now and then?"

I agreed to see him the next evening and he got me back at the store just in time.

Molly saw me getting out of the car and so did Dolly Hawkins.

"She knocks 'em cold and drags 'em away with her—th' cute little si-reen!" Molly exclaimed as I got inside the doorway.

THOMPSON FORGOTTEN

That made me giggle.

But Dolly grabbed my arm as we stepped into the service elevator.

"My hat off to you — and I thought you a mere babe!" she whispered.

"He—he's just a friend, a nice boy," I stammered.

"Don't think I haven't seen enough pictures of Thad Parsons to recognize him. Kit, you are a wow for luck!" Dolly cried.

That was about the way I felt—awfully lucky to have a wonderful young man like Thad Parsons get acquainted with me.

I had forgotten that I half promised to go to a movie with Pete Thompson. And the next night just as I was coming out with Thad Parsons, who had called for me, I met Peter coming in.

"Hello, Peter!" I cried, to hide my confusion.

Thad Parsons lifted his hat. Peter did the same. Then he stood and watched me get into the swell car—another one, this time, with a chauffeur.

I hoped Peter wouldn't be sore, but if he did it would be just too bad, and I laughed at the idea of comparing Thad Parsons with Peter Thompson.

I wore the blue dress I had worn when I first met Major Boyden. It was my only really nice and becoming dress. We went to one of the swellest of hotels—a place I never expected to see the inside of beyond the foyer.

What a kick a girl gets when her escort is known and catered to!

Evidently Thad was widely known. The head waiter got us a table, and we had a dinner that was a revelation to me. After that we went to see a big revue that had opened that very week. Thad Parsons was the most entertaining man I had met at this time. He was forever saying clever things, he was wonderful company and now and then he would whisper something sweet to me. Half a dozen times he said, "There ought to be a law against a girl looking so gorgeous—it's positively a menace to men with weak hearts!"

Once I told him that from the way the girls around us were staring at him I thought he was just about the answer to a maiden's prayer.

LUXURIOUS PLACE

"Kitty, you don't need a line!" he answered, with mock reproach. It was the first time he called me "Kitty."

"How about just an hour of dancing?" he asked after the show. "I know you have to work and cannot stay up all night."

So we went to a quiet place that looked like a millionaire's home, or the way I imagined one would look. People were in evening clothes, there was a little show put on, nice suppers served and at one end of the big dining room a regular bar, except that it was all glass, top, sides and even the foot rail, and we could see the drinks mixed.

At exactly 1 o'clock Thad—I had started to call him "Thad" by this time—left me at my home.

"I have to run down to the north shore, Manchester-by-the-Sea, you know. I'll drop you a line and see you in a week or less," he said, and he patted my hand, but didn't offer to kiss me.

All other parties I had known paled into insignificance beside this one. Here was youth, beauty, a fine, jolly young man, a gay little party of two and none of the coarser jokes and double-meaning sayings and rather raw stories that Dolly and her crowd were forever laughing at.

I went to sleep happy, despite one little cloud—I couldn't always wear this blue dress and I couldn't afford many good clothes. Still, good clothes had to be worn if I went out with a wealthy young society man like Thad.

My sister Cora didn't seem to enthuse very much when I raved about the party next morning at my hurried breakfast.

"He might be in love with you, but the chances are he likes your pretty face and hopes to make a conquest," she said.

I saw father shake his head at Cora.

"Kitty understands what I mean," Cora declared.

OFFERED NEW JOB

"No one will make a conquest of Kitty until she is ready to be won—let the child have a little pleasure," my good old dad said.

Mrs. Wayne, whom I told, was all a-twitter.

"Just like a novel I read once—imagine marrying into that family," she cried.

I laughed at her, but at the same time I had already imagined it, or tried to imagine it.

Dolly didn't show up to work that day.

At the end of the week she hadn't been in. She didn't even come to get her pay envelope for the half week she had worked.

I remember this very well because it was the day after I had been out with Thad. I had wanted to tell Dolly all about it.

I never did tell Dolly, for I never saw her again—she just utterly disappeared.

On Monday I found a letter from Thad when I got home, just a little note saying he would see me the following Thursday.

That made me happy.

And then a stout man, with his wife, who had stopped at my counter, kept eyeing me until I was nervous and a little bit sore, but when he whispered to his wife and she began to look me over I wasn't sore any more, just curious. It was his wife who spoke to me.

"Dearie," she said, "you shouldn't be workin' here—you should work for us—so much easier, so much bigger wages."

"What is that?" I asked.

"A model you should be—a cloak and suit model—a model for swell Paris gowns that we make," then she leaned over and whispered the salary. I almost clutched the counter, I was so surprised.

Does Kitty accept her new offer? You'll find the answer in tomorrow's interesting installment.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Hearts Are Trump

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Romantic Elopement Angers Mother of Bride

The west veranda of the Callowell mansion on Sycamore street was almost as large as a dance hall.

On rainy days the windows could be closed and the outside fireplace lighted, making it a delightful place.

On hot days the windows could be folded and swung out, the awnings, with their gay orange and red stripes, lowered; the small overhead fans turned on, and it was a still more delightful place.

Mrs. Callowell belonged to the Rivington Bridge Club.

If you belonged to the Rivington you were someone, socially, in that town, whether you were a clever player or just a duffer, at the game. The Rivington was top-notch, socially.

There were to be only four tables this day. They were to play out on the great west veranda of the Callowell mansion.

The place was cool, bright, gay with the awnings and flowers and palms.

Foster, the new butler, was almost awesome in his correct raiment and he could concoct the most inspiring summer drinks imaginable.

Mrs. Callowell was beaming. Everything was perfection.

Hers would be the most notable bridge afternoon of the year's rounds of the most notable Rivington Club.

At 5:30 Miss Dane, of the Morning Mercury, would arrive and be refreshed a little, given a carefully typed list of those present, the details of the afternoon's prize winners, and sent on her way to write the leading article for the morning's society column.

GUESTS ARRIVE

More than that, Mrs. Callowell had finally broken up the incipient love affair between her daughter, Imogene, and young Merle Vane, the architect.

Imogene was, after all, a dutiful daughter and when Mrs. Callowell said, "We shall be guests of Lady Fahnson at her castle in Scotland next month, and you will doubtless marry a title," Imogene had repeated, "Yes, mother."

No wonder that Mrs. Callowell beamed as her sister Rivington club members arrived and came out on the great west veranda, ushered by the awe-inspiring butler.

All of this was meat and drinks to Mrs. Callowell.

At the appointed time the tall onyx ash stands were placed, the first tall cooling beverage passed by Foster and then the tinkle of the bell.

The games had started.

"She's in her glory," Mrs. Ellison whispered, at Table 3.

"Isn't she," Mrs. Thyne agreed. "I bid two hearts."

"This gin isn't as good as what Alfred gets," Mrs. Holt said, sotto voce. "I pass."

"Look at her diamonds—and in the afternoon," hissed Mrs. Smithson. "Three diamonds."

"Pass," said Mrs. Ellison. "I think Oriental rugs out of place on a veranda."

"They are. Do you take me out of a major suit, partner?" Mrs. Thyne asked.

"Perforce, partner. Look, isn't that Merle Vane driving past?"

"Yes. I wonder if he's coming to see Imogene?"

"Dear me, no. Hadn't you heard? Mrs. Callowell has put a stop to that, nipped the romance in the bud. What was bid?"

TALK OF MARRIAGE

"Three diamonds, it's up to—"

"I pass."

"Three hearts," Mrs. Thyne said, severely. "Poor Imogene, I'm sorry for her, and Merle is such a handsome boy. It is your lead, Mrs. Ellison."

The game went on.

Mrs. Callowell at Table 4, was most gracious. She had seen Merle Vane drive past. Little escaped her. It was refreshing to notice that he didn't even glance at the house.

"Yes, we're to be guests at the Castle Caldonburr in Scotland," Mrs. Callowell said. "Was it two clubs bid?"

"I went two spades," Mrs. Hart answered and added, "how lovely—if the castle has any sanitation at all."

"Three clubs," Mrs. Thomas said, decisively.

"My dear, this is a renovated castle, millions spent on it. The Fahnsons are terribly wealthy and connected with the royal house. I have had it hinted that Imogene and myself will be there when the prince and his brother are there as guests. What was the bid?"

"Imagine that—imagine Imogene having such an opportunity," gushed Mrs. Vanton.

"The bid, Mrs. Callowell, is now three clubs, against you," Mrs. Thomas said, smiling coldly and rolling her eyes. Mrs. Thomas played for the first prize every time.

"Pass," Mrs. Callowell murmured. "Yes, indeed, we shall remain at the castle for four weeks and perhaps longer. I expect that dear Imogene will be besieged——"

"What do you do, partner?" Mrs. Thomas demanded.

"Pass," Mrs. Vanton informed her and turned to Mrs. Callowell. "Imagine it—just imagine it. Your Imogene will be engaged to some great title before she returns, I am sure."

"Not a doubt of it—"

"Lead, Mrs. Callowell, please. The bid is three clubs."

And that game went on.

At Table 1 the game was just under way.

"Can you hear Mrs. Callowell gabbing about her Imogene?" Mrs. Symonds hissed. "Let me see, did I take that spade trick in dummy?"

"In your own hand, dear," Mrs. Priestly, her partner, said. "Yes, she's babbling constantly about going to some castle."

"I know it." Mrs. Granger put in. "When I was over there I saw a dozen castles where they took boarders—is that your ten spot, partner?"

And the game proceeded.

Imogene came out on the west veranda silently, she had a box of bon-bons under her arm and a new novel in her hand.

She waved and smiled as the ladies smiled at her and nodded.

"Imogene, dear, do rest this afternoon," Mrs. Callowell called out. "Remember we have only three days before sailing, and those 10 days of shopping in Paris before we go to the castle. You must reserve your strength, darling."

"Yes, mother dear. I am going right up now, after I have some cold chocolate."

Imogene waved and smiled and went back into the house, pausing at the open doors to smother a little yawn.

"Such a sweet girl," Mrs. Priestly said. Mrs. Priestly had just been taken into the club and was anxious to become friendly with Mrs. Callowell.

They played on and on and on.

By five o'clock the progression had brought the same ones back to table 3.

INTERRUPTED BY TRUCK

"I lost horribly when I had Mrs. Callowell for a partner," whispered Mrs. Thyne. "All she could think of was going to a castle and marrying Imogene off to a title. She trumped two of my tricks and wasted two trumps. I lost heavily—let me see, I dealt, my bid, and I make it three hearts."

"Same with me. I got her two tables back and all she did was babble and flash her diamonds, so crude in daylight, I pass three hearts," hissed Mrs. Ellison.

"I'll be so glad when we stop for refreshments. I think the butler got water instead of gin in that last drink, and I'd rather have nothing than an insipid drink. I pass—and I hope I hear no more about castles and titles for a year," said Mrs. Smithson.

The others shuddered, it seemed as though Mrs. Callowell must have heard.

"Did you notice that the red in the awnings had run into the orange? Ghastly—what is bid? Oh, yes, diamonds—"

"No, Mrs. Holt, three hearts."

"Indeed, hearts? I shall try three no trump."

A truck went thundering past, the sound coming up across the lawn.

"I shall have this stopped—no trucking on this street," Mrs. Callowell said, sharply. "That awful din is likely to waken poor Imogene and she needs her afternoon sleep. She is going to be utterly fatigued selecting her Paris frocks, although she speaks perfect French—er—what is trumps?"

"Diamonds," Mrs. Granger said sharply, winking at Mrs. Priestly.

"This is the last hand, everyone," Mrs. Callowell called out.

The hand was finished.

Mrs. Thomas lost some of her grouch because she had high score and took first prize, a little Quimper-ware ash tray.

Foster brought out the light refreshments and this time he served cocktails.

INFORMED OF ELOPEMENT

"We shall get better liquors in Scotland," Mrs. Callowell said, "and, of course, there will be very old vintage wine at the castle where we are guests. What is that, Foster? Oh, yes, Miss Dane, of the Morning Mercury. Bring her in and give her a cocktail. I have all of your names, my dears, and the prize—ah, yes, Miss Dane, we shall be pleased to help you out. It must be so difficult getting real society news these days. Now here is a list—"

"Oh, Mrs. Callowell, I can get all this bridge stuff later. I'm just so thrilled now—I want to know all about it."

"Here is the list—"

"I mean about the romantic elopement of your daughter and young Mr. Vane, the architect, and—"

"How absurd! My daughter is sleeping in her room. Where did you get such stupid gossip?"

"Oh, you must be mistaken. I saw them both at the flying field. They took off at 3:30. They were to make the Newark field in an hour and get the boat at 5. The boat has sailed already. There were to be witnesses and a minister at the Newark flying field—"

"Are you crazy? Foster, go and call Miss Imogene."

"She left, madam, shortly after 3. She went out the rear garden and was driven away by young Mr. Vane, madam!"

A boy wheeled up and delivered a telegram from Mr. and Mrs. Merle Vane.

"Please, what shall I say in the paper from you, Mrs. Callowell?" Miss Dane begged.

Mrs. Callowell glared at the grinning faces of her bridge club guests.

"You wouldn't print it," snapped Mrs. Callowell, drinking the first cocktail within reach.

What They Demonstrated

Strikers' Parade Bears Witness to the Strength of the National Miners Union.

Striking coal miners affiliated with the radical National Miners Union gave a demonstration in Pittsburgh yesterday. From all points of the compass they flocked to the city and paraded through some of the downtown streets.

They demonstrated that the National Miners Union, though only two years old, is a power that must be reckoned with in the soft coal industry.

They demonstrated that the miners of Western Pennsylvania no longer look askance at Communism.

They demonstrated that they have been made desperate by suffering.

What a change five years have wrought!

Five years ago such a parade would have been inconceivable. The United Mine Workers of America was in the saddle then. And the United Mine Workers was adamant in its opposition to Communism, as it still is.

Nearly every miner in the Pittsburgh District was a member of the United Mine Workers then. The union was recognized by most of the large operators. The miners were paid the Jacksonville wage scale of $7.50 a day and lived comfortably. Preachers of Bolshevism had no appreciable following in the mining camps of Western Pennsylvania five years ago.

The miners had no use then for the things for which the National Miners Union, the Trade Unity League and W. Z. Foster stand. They would have no use for them now if they had not been made desperate by hardship and destitution.

The way to eradicate Communism among the miners is not to club and curse them, not to jail and deport them, not to deprive them of the right of free speech and assembly, but to change the conditions that have brought these unfortunate people to such a sad pass.

All these other things have been tried, again and again, and are still being tried by some of the operators and some of the subservient public officials—to no avail. Brutal repression has accomplished and will accomplish nothing. When a striker is clubbed or shot or ridden down by a mounted policeman for parading or picketing new Reds are created.

The Sun-Telegraph is glad to commend Supt. Walsh and the Pittsburgh police for the good sense and consideration they showed in not interfering with the parade.

Some of the marchers violated the police rules, but without doing any harm. Because there were women and children in the procession Walsh wisely chose not to molest the demonstrators.

Gov. Pinchot set a good example in granting an audience to the National Miners Union's spokesmen and in listening patiently to their abusive tirades.

Deprived of the opportunity to claim they are persecuted, unable to pose as martyrs, the Reds' leaders will lose some of their influence.

But the chief remedy for Communism is to give the miners a chance to live decently and comfortably.

Electricity on Farms

Allegheny County Figures Suggest Desirability of Change in System of Extending Lines.

The State Department of Agriculture reports that only 1,110, or a little more than one-fourths, of the 3,917 farms in Allegheny County have electric power. They do not receive current from a central station, and they do not have their own plants.

When one considers the multitude of uses to which electricity can be applied on the farm, it is little short of shocking that nearly three-fourths of our farms are without it.

The reason for the situation lies in the regulation requiring farmers to guarantee to pay companies furnishing electric power an enormous return—something like 20 per cent a year on the cost of extending a transmission line to their farms.

That, of course, places the cost of electricity beyond the reach of most of the farmers, even in Allegheny County, where lines are not more than a few miles distant from any rural dweller. In other counties the situation is much worse.

The telephone company does not require rural customers to pay for line extensions, and there seems no good reason why the Duquesne Light Company should not follow a similar policy.

If the Public Service Commission is responsible, why should it make fish of one and fiesh of the other, when in both cases the extension of service involves the same kind of work and materials—that is, the erection of poles and wires?

Immigration Laws

Adoption of Selective System of Immigration and Strengthening of Deportation Laws Needed.

When the new Congress convenes it will be called upon to make our immigration laws more responsive to the needs of a great and growing nation.

Smallest in 69 years is the number of aliens who entered this country in the fiscal year which ends this week. Less than 100,000 have been admitted in the last 12 months.

So rapidly is the number of foreign born residents decreasing that the day is not far distant when native born Americans, for the first time in more than a century, will make up most of our national population.

Experience proves that "it is impossible to separate the sheep from the goats on the basis of geography."

Existing laws should be revised so as to give the executive branch of the government authority to select for admission the most desirable from the applicants from other countries now awaiting admission within quota limits.

This would give us a scientific system of selection flexible to the needs of the whole country and fair to all concerned.

In the meantime, our deportation laws should be strengthened so as to speed up the deportation of criminal aliens.

All criminal aliens, except those found guilty of capital crimes, should be deported as soon as sentence is imposed. This would save to the American taxpayers thousands of dollars now spent upon the imprisonment of criminal aliens.

Congress should also protect aliens legally admitted by requiring all aliens to register. Then the job of getting rid of aliens who violate the law to get here will be much simplified.

If the new Congress will adopt a selective system of immigration, strengthen the deportation laws, and require all aliens to register, we shall then have immigration laws that protect the national welfare and respond to national needs.

This is no partisan question, and leaders of both parties should welcome the opportunity to unite in dealing with it patriotically.

Fest und Treu

The Value to Germany of One Old Man.

PRESIDENT VON HINDENBURG, GREATEST ASSET OF THE GERMAN REPUBLIC

A fine old man is this great general, now head of the German Republic. When war came, in 1914, Von Hindenburg had already retired, on account of "old age." He lived on his farm, and his active days were over.

But BRAINS in an old body are better than LACK of brains in a young body. And Hindenburg was called into the fight. What glory the Germans won, what success they had in that war, was due, largely, to this old man, long past the retirement age. Not much of the glory went to the Hohenzollerns, supposed to have inherited the military power of their ancestor, Frederick the Great.

When Von Hindenburg came to power, it was suggested by many: "He will be under the influence of the former Kaiser. He will not be able to throw off his allegiance to the imperial and royal family, for which he has worked all his life. We should have a radical, not a great soldier for President."

They did not know Von Hindenburg.

HE TOOK AN OATH of service to the German Republic. One look at his face shows you that when this man takes an oath it is irrevocable.

He has served the republic well, he has thwarted schemers that would bring back the Hohenzollerns to create more trouble. And he has held in check violent, extreme radicals, that would have prevented Germany's recovery.

You see Von Hindenburg here, going on board the German cruiser Konigsberg, after launching the wonderful German "pocket battleship" Deutschland, of which you have read in this column.

Well may the Germans thank Providence for this splendid type of their race, worthy to rank with that truly great German, the Baron von Stein.

Marry-Go-Round

Love—Real or Synthetic?

The many letters which I have received, since my diatribe against the ungentle art of petting, have convinced me that the average Modern doesn't know the difference between love-making and petting or (in very vulgar parlance) "necking."

* * *

All these sweethearts and husbands and wives, who write me so seriously, assume that I am just one of those ungathered flowers in the garden of love with only an academic knowledge of the well-known kiss. That I get all my information about the tender passion either at the movies or through a spy-glass on a moonlit beach.

Be that as it may, let me explain that the difference between love-making and petting is not merely a difference of words, but a very deep and essential differentiation.

When you caress anybody whom you love—or think you love—it is LOVE-MAKING. When you kiss or maul anybody who happens to be just a casual incident in your life—when you make just an evening's pastime of your love-making—it is "petting," that cheap modern sport.

That is not ALL the difference—but it is the basic difference. No man who actually loved a woman could even THINK of a tender evening spent with her as "necking." Now, I ask you—COULD he? Even the savage has a tenderness and delicacy of feeling for the woman he happens to love at the moment.

There is as much difference between love-making and casual petting as there is between a cathedral organ and a "funny postcard."

* * *

Or as there is between a Rembrandt and a "funny postcard."

* * *

Or between Monte Carlo on a moonlight night—and Coney Island on a Saturday afternoon.

Or between a cafe parfait and an ice cream cone.

Or between a California moon and a Japanese lantern.

Or between music and jazz!

And, of course, if one's taste runs to funny postcards and hotdogs and bootleg cocktails and jazz, one naturally takes to casual petting.

* * *

But, in my heart, I believe that most women want LOVE and love-making—and would cheerfully dispense with all this cheap synthetic romance.

* * *

And men always give a woman what she wants and demands, when they discover that she will accept no substitute.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 1.—Imperious New York hotels angle for "names" on registers because they find it brings patronage. In George Boldt's day at the old Waldorf many honeymooners from the outland stopped there because it was the hotel of presidents and "something to refer to."

Albert Keller's Ritz-Carlton spawned the slang term "putting on the Ritz," and it continues to draw a number who like to brag a little back home. Among numerous other "smart" hotels are the Plaza, the St. Regis, Sherry-Netherland and that piercing thin gray spire known as Pierre's.

The Savoy-Plaza is known locally as "the international country club" and lists such cosmopolites as Joseph E. Widener, Florenz Ziegfeld, Fritz Kreisler and Winnie Sheehan. Royalty, especially from England and France, lodge at the Ritz. It is also the American home of the Prince of Monaco.

The Plaza is favored by rich spending South Americans. Winston Churchill stops there, as do sundry Social Registerites. One of its luxurious apartments is that of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gould, the latter the former Lorraine Manville. The Ambassador and Warwick include many Hollywood stars.

Lately there has sprung up a clump of swanky inns in the exclusive Park avenue section—such as Mayfair House, the Westbury, the Sulgrave and the Carlyle. The British ambassador stops at one, a Lady This or a Lord That may be found on nearly all registers.

The new St. Moritz is ultra French, featuring a concierge on a platform and servants with an unctious "Tres bien." The American branch of Rumpelmayer's rue de Rivoli tea room is there. The Biltmore has housed Marshal Foch, the Prince of Wales, Clemenceau and King Albert. Yet many inns not so well known house notables.

Theodore Roosevelt stops at Le Marquis. Willa Cather and Sherwood Anderson lived at the sedate old Chelsea. At the Judson in Washington Square have resided Henry James, Marion Crawford and Nazimova. The vanishing Belmont was the temporary home of three champions—Tunney, Dempsey and Corbett.

The McAlpin is, I believe, the only hostelry with a floor exclusively for women and one similarly for men only. It introduced the over-night kit for travelers without baggage—a nightgown or pajamas, sterilized hair and tooth brush and comb. This for theater going commuters who miss their trains. Hundreds do nightly.

* * *

A hotel little known to the out-of-towner but a favorite among older aristocrats is the Colinwood on Thirty-fifth street near Broadway. It has been the home of many blueblooded Knickerbockers and some are still there.

* * *

The official Hotel Red Book lists some 350 New York hotels, but overlooks a number. It does not—or at least did not recently—include the Brevoort. Modernized the Brevoort still diffuses a delightful old world charm. It has been the home of Montague Glass, Sinclair Lewis, Meredith Nicholson, Rupert Hughes, George Ade and Booth Tarkington.

* * *

Between the acts a group of us who do not parade in the lobby fell into a huddle and discussion turned to family opposition to a career. I told how my father offered me $200 not to become a writer. "What," inquired Bob Garland, "did you do with the money?"

* * *

At the next entr-acte discussion switched to astrology. From an astral addict I learned my birth date, February 18, fell under the eleventh sign of the zodiac-Aquarius. Under Aquarius were born such worthies as Washington, Edison, Ford, Rockefeller, etc., but it seems the 18th is sort of the fag end. Old Aquarius that time is petered out and genius is at a low ebb. But born five days early, I might be running this paper.

Incidentally, an effort to make my birth house in Plattsburg, Mo., a public library has reached the stage of an O. O. McIntyre Library Committee. A line about it in the Kansas City Star penciled with this notation has been received. "Next thing Plattsburg will be wearing shoes and combing its hair."

SCIENTIFIC FARMING

By Archibald Henderson

The life of the race depends upon air, water, heat, shelter and food. Agriculture is one of the world's vital industries. Considering how little farmers have really known, scientifically, down through the centuries, regarding crops, soils, fertilizers, the chemistry of plants and vegatation, it is amazing how well the world has got along, all things considered. It would appear as if a beneficent providence had taken care of a childish and ignorant race and preserved it from destruction.

Of course it must not be forgotten that farmers did know a great deal, in a traditionary way. From countless failures, one success survived. The farmer remembered that; and passed the word along to his neighbor farmer. In this way a great lore of agriculture came down the ages. But it was very crude knowledge. The farmer knew certain facts; but he didn't know how the result was attained, and why the outcome was a success.

For centuries, farmers rotated crops—largely as a matter of common sense. Farmers for countless ages have used manures to fertilize their crops. They have used many other things which proved to be successful as fertilizing agents—dung, leaf mold, chalk, marl. They were not used with scientific insight into the reasons for so doing. The farmers have always, until recent years, largely gone it blind.

Nowadays the study of soils, of agriculture as a whole, is one of the most important functions of government. A study of a pinch of soil will show you how essential it is to know all about it. A pinch of soil looks to be dead as Queen Anne. But seen under a powerful microscope, millions of tiny living creatures reveal themselves in this pinch of soil. The surface soil of the earth, for three or four feet down, is infested with these tiny creatures known as bacteria. Further down they thin out; and if we go far enough down we come to soil which is truly dead.

Plants are dependent for life upon bacteria. They cannot live without bacteria. These tiny little objects range in size from one twenty-five-thousandth of an inch in diameter. So fast do they multiply that, according to calculation, one of them under ideal conditions might in a day become the ancestor of 280,000,000,000,000.

Bacteria are agents for disintegrating fertilizing agents, and converting them into palatable plant food. This they do with manure, dead plants, nitrate and even stuff so tough as wheat straw. Scientists now know, not only what plants live upon, but also how they feed, and the conditions of food, moisture and warmth under which they reach their full growth.

The discovery of artificial manure for plants has had a revolutionary effect upon agriculture. Bones were found successful, since they contain phosphorous; but of course they are very slow to disintegrate. An important discovery was made by the famous German chemist, Justus von Leibig, during the last century—namely that bones treated with sulphuric acid constitute an admirable plant food. An even more fruitful discovery was that of Henslow, who found that coprolite could be used like bones for making superphosphates. Of this one manure, we are told by Bridges and Tiltman in Master Minds of Modern Science, the world now makes and uses more than six million tons a year!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Her Beauty

Her beauty was subtle thing,
A rare and ardent loveliness,
And yet so veiled, so slumbering
Few strangers' eyes could ever guess
At all so deeply hidden there
In that dispassionate, still face,
Framed by her clouds of dusky hair
All lighted by an inward grace.

Yet once I watched her in an hour
Which long-awaited joy had blessed,
I saw her radiance in flower
And all her matchless charm confessed.
Swift winds to fire fan sparks unknown
And so her beauty flared to flame.
The gift she kept for one alone
Leapt up to greet him when he came.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Machines — I wonder about them. I wonder if they're worth the price we're paying for them.

I talked with three men out of a job—two old men, one young one. One of the old men was a ranch hand. He was telling about the good old days when a man could walk from one ranch to another, picking up a job wherever he went. Everyone wanted labor then. Trouble was, there weren't enough men to go around.

"But the machines have spoiled all that," he said. "Didya read about that new machine for pressing sugar cane? Does the work 200 men used to do. There's 200 men without a job today—"

The other old man agreed. He'd worked making buggies, as a young man. Time was when hand work counted—when everything you used was put together by somebody's hands. But the machines had spoiled that, too. One man, sitting in front of a machine, made a score of families go hungry.

There sat the two old men. Their gnarled bodies, their calloused hands, were still strong and eager to work. They were honest and proud. They had a sense of responsibility. But what good did all that do? The machines had taken their jobs away. The machines had made beggars of them.

The old men were tragic. But, somehow, the young man seemed even more tragic. He was about 25. He couldn't remember a world without machines—a world in which the people had to make and do things with their own hands. Slave like that? Not him! Plainly he thought that people who did slave like that were hicks. He defended the machines. A fellow couldn't live decent without street cars, automobiles, elevators, telephones, movies, electric pianos, nickel-in-the-slot devices. The machines weren't to blame for hard times. The capitalists were to blame.

Obviously, in his mind, anyone who had something he didn't have, but wanted, was a capitalist—and he hated them. The hate showed in his face. His furtive eyes smoldered. His smooth, boneless hands rolled one cigaret after another . . . the cigaret hung limply from his lax mouth as he talked, and its spark glowed dully, like the hate in his eyes.

You could see he didn't amount to much. He was the lazy product of the machines which had conditioned his life. There was no real vigor, pride or independence in him. He expected to get things easy, without working. Only saps worked. If you were smart, you got things by pressing a button, OR, MAYBE, PULLING A TRIGGER.

I looked at the honest, gnarled old men who wanted a job—and the furtive, soft young man who didn't want a job—the machines were responsible for them both. The old men were pitiful . . . but the young man was both pitiful and dangerous. He and his generation. Tens of thousands of them like that. The pernicious, by-product of the machine age. If they can't push the button how long before they pull the trigger?

Machines — they're wonderful. They've helped us. But have they helped us too much? HAVE WE ROBBED MEN TO MAKE MACHINES?

HARRIS VOICES INSTITUTION'S NEED HERE

Preliminary Study to Start On Psychiatric Project In Medical Center Soon

Plans for the preliminary study of the proposed $2,000,000 state psychiatric hospital to be erected in the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center are expected to be formulated within the next few weeks.

The state has provided $25,000 for the survey through a bill signed last week by Gov. Pinchot. The bill was introduced by State Senator Frank J. Harris and empowers the Department of Property and Supplies, under Secretary James F. Malone, to proceed with the work.

Senator Harris expressed confidence that the necessary legislation to provide $2,000,000 for the 250-bed institution will be passed at the next session of the legislature. He declared:

"The institution is greatly needed and Western Pennsylvania is the most convenient location. It will in no sense be an insane asylum, but a source of proper rest and care for psychiatric cases."

The institution would be located on property donated by the university in its medical center on Fifth avenue and DeSoto and Terrace streets. The Presbyterian and the Children's hospitals will occupy adjoining sites.

EAST DISTRICT BOASTS FINE BASEBALL

Fans in Homestead Aroused By West Penn Loop Fight; Edgewood Wins 17 in Row

By TOM BIRKS

With its teams leading local sandlot loops, baseball is taking upon itself quite a flourish in the East End and East Boroughs.

Fans in the Homestead section are aroused over the fight of Jack Fettig's Homestead Aces in the West Penn loop. For many years the Aces have been contenders in the various championships, and this season the popular Homestead manager has the Aces in the thick of the race.

West Field is the mecca of the sandlot fans, and with Osmonga, Connelly and Miller twirling good baseball, there is every reason to feel that the Steel town nine will nose out Reliance Life for the first half title in the West Penn.

EAST END LEAGUE

Sandlot baseball is probably attracting more fans than ever before since twilight league baseball became an institution. Fans from the Lawrenceville section are following Manager Danko and his leading team of the Steel City loop, the St. Elizabeth nine.

Classed as the finest light first-class league ever organized in the city, Danko has kept the Leslie Park club in the front of the race. This league is the only strictly East End league with the De Pasquale club of Oakland, the East End Cardinals, who are fighting the Saints for the title, the Caruso club, of Hays Mifflin Township and the Brodericks of Lawrenceville, all clubs evenly balanced and playing to banner crowds.

Frazier street grounds, Homewood, and Leslie Park, together with Marshall Field are getting a play from the sandlotters.

Wilkinsburg, always one of the sandlot towns worth talking about, finds the Mur Jewelers representing the Holy City in the Greater Pittsburgh League. The Edgewood Club has one of the finest aggregations ever gathered together and is leading the loop. Edgewood, under the managerial wing of Wally Pickett, has copped 17 games in a row, and was only nosed out 5 to 4 by the Homestead Grays.

TURTLE CREEK VALLEY

Sandlot baseball is slipping rapidly around the Turtle Creek Valley. One club, the Turtle Creek Valley Community Builders, and backed by the community, managed by Dutch Winters and playing in the West Penn loop, is left to carry the sandlot banner. This club a first year team playing at the Union High School stadium, is having a lot of success under Winters, who is one of the finest outfielders developed in the Valley district. Sandlot baseball got a black eye when the famous Wilmerding Airbrake nine passed from the picture, but the fans are hoping to see the Airbrake nine, which developed players like Kimmick, Gannon and Artman, back again.

The Homewood club of the City League has been playing in-and-out baseball all summer. For a long time the East Enders, under Manager Daly, seemed to be walking away with the first-half title of the City loop. However, Bimmy Steele, classed as the outstanding pitcher in the loop last season, failed to come through, and this threw the burden on the shoulders of Carl Stewart.

The veteran pitched wonderful baseball, but could not go through alone. Manager Daly and Heinie Boll are looking for reinforcements for the second-half campaign.
